RENEWAL OF PACTS WITH 23 NATIONS HITS SENATE SNAG

Unexpected Strength of Opposition Shown to Compulsory Arbitration Alarms the Friends of Principle.

CANAL TOLLS QUESTION BRINGS UP ARGUMENT

Unless There Is a Decided Change of Sentiment Renewal of Peace Conventions May Be Impossible.

Washington, June 6.—The principle of compulsory arbitration written into the code that has bound the United States with 23 nations of the world for the last five years, is in serious danger and unless there is a decided change in sentiment in the senate the renewal of 23 of the treaties which gave concrete evidence of this nation's belief in such a policy may be impossible. In executive session tonight the senate again failed to ratify renewals of the arbitration agreements with Great Britain, Italy and Spain, which recently expired. These conventions provide that questions relating to the interpretation of treaties, excepting those that cannot be settled through diplomatic channels or those of vital, int-rest, national honor or Independence, shall be submitted to The Hague. A similar treaty with France already has been renewed.

The main argument tonight arose over the contention that if the treaty with Great Britain is ratified the Panama canal tolls question would have to be submitted to The Hague, but during the discussion the Japanese question and the general attitude of the nation toward compulsory arbitration was brought up and led to the expression of views utterly at variance with entering into such binding agreements in the future.

Long Debate Expected.

A motion to re-refer the three treaties to the foreign relations committee with instructions that the one with Great Britain be modified so as to exempt specifically the Panama canal tolls question was abandoned but prolonged debate was predicted for future sessions and friends of the principle of arbitration are alarmed at the strength displayed by the opposition. One senator went so far as to declare:

"There are many people in the United States and in the senate who ought to live in England.

Senators who did not speak, but who discussed arbitration with their colleagues during the debate, expressed decided opinions on the extent to which this nation has bound itself to argue matters out before a court. This attitude was condemned as one which was becoming misunderstood throughout the world and one which had appeared in the controversy in the Mexican problem, in the dispute with Great Britain and in the more recent controversy with Japan.

Bacon Only Open Backer.

Many senators were convinced tonight that few of the 23 agreements which come up for renewal in the next few months will be allowed to without a hard fight. Although the treaties probably have many supporters, Chairman Bacon of the foreign relations committee was about the only one who spoke in their behalf in spite of his endorsement of arbitration. Mr. Bacon held the view that under the British treaty the tolls question must be arbitrated and expressed entire sympathy with the California land legislation.

Senator Chamberlain was the only member to object to the British treaty yesterday when it first came before the senate with the approval of the foreign relations committee but in the night's session there were nine senators behind him. The Oregon senator contended that there could be little question that under the proposed agreement the tolls question must be arbitrated. He pointed to utterances of Sir Edward Grey, the British minister for foreign affairs, as complete vindication of his position.

Senator Oliver, chairman of the interoceanic canals committee, in direct charge of Panama legislation declaring his opposition to arbitration of this matter but said that in his

$2,000,000 NEEDED FOR HIGH SCHOOLS, STATES COL. DALEY

In Address at Boys' High School Graduation President of Board of Education Tells of Conditions.

"NOT A HIGH SCHOOL HAS ADEQUATE PLANT"

Bond Issue of $5,000,000 Is Urged and of This Col. Daley Asks $2,000,000 for New High Schools.

"Atlanta has a credit upon which any city government could borrow $5,000,000; there is not an adequate high school in the city, and it's time for the people of Atlanta, the fathers and mothers of the children in the schools and the citizens interested in education to urge the city councilmen to wake up and do their duty," said Colonel Walter R. Daley, president of the board of education, in delivering the diplomas to sixty-four graduates of the Boys' High school last night at the Grand Opera house.

When he delivered the diplomas Thursday night to graduates of the Girls' High school, Colonel Daley pleaded for a bond issue for the construction of new and adequate school buildings. In his address Friday night he reiterated and strengthened his plea, pledging himself to work for this end until it is accomplished, and calling on the citizens of Atlanta to fight for it.

In opening his address the speaker declared that he wanted to say a few practical things about the high schools in Atlanta, and first of all he told of the work that had been accomplished and praised the efficiency of the present system, calling attention to the 600 students in the male schools and the many more in the girls' schools.

"High Schools Efficient."

"As an example of work done in the Boys' High school," said Colonel Daley, "I want to say that from the class of 1912 that went from the Boys' High school, every boy who went to college was well enough prepared to stand the examinations for the college class to which he sought admission. All our boys went out in some of the strongest and largest colleges in the country.

"We have done something for the grammar schools," he declared; "in the past few years we have spent $6,000,000 on grammar schools, and in that time only one new high school, despite the fact that in that time and at present there is not an adequate building in the city for high school work.

"The grammar schools are important, we have realized that, and we ought to realize that importance of the High schools and come to the knowledge of the fact that many Atlanta boys receive their final preparation in these schools for life—not such a great per-

THOMSON POSTOFFICE RIFLED BY BURGLARS

Thomson, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—The postoffice here was entered last night. Entrance was gained by breaking a large glass window in the rear of the building.

About midnight Policeman E. L. Bailey was attracted by a noise in that direction and on approach the parties fled. Postmaster Barnes was notified and a search made. Desks and drawers had been rifled. About 20 cents and a pistol were missing.

A chisel and crace and bit were found and identified as belonging to shops here, which had also been broken open. A pair of tan shoes were found near by.

POINTS RAISED BY JAPS CAUSE GREAT INTEREST

Arguments Used in Rejoinder Are Calculated to Tax Talents of American Negotiators.

Washington, June 6.—Japan's latest note in regard to the California land legislation, admittedly furnishing problems calculated to tax the talents of the American negotiators, was read at the cabinet meeting today and later was the subject of a conference between President Wilson and John Bassett Moore, counsellor of the state department.

Consideration of the note by the cabinet was deferred until the return of Secretary Bryan from Pittsburg this afternoon for Pittsburg to attend a farewell dinner in honor of the new ambassador to Japan from the United States, George W. Guthrie. There was some discussion, however, after the long document had been read, and President Wilson, as a result of his talk with Ambassador Chinda yesterday, was able to illuminate the formal statements presented with side lights, disclosing internal political conditions in Japan which are powerfully influencing the Japanese foreign office in the conduct of the negotiations.

Press dispatches from Tokio outlining the contents of the Japanese communication were received with great interest here.

Officials who have examined into the subject have reached the conclusion that the Japanese foreign office has shown a remarkable knowledge of American constitutional law, and that the legal lights of the state depart-

FORGING AHEAD ON 1,500-MILE HIKE

WESTON'S WALKING SMILE.

After Edward P. Weston, the aged pedestrian, had left New York on his 1,500-mile walk to Minneapolis, reports from various towns through New Jersey showed that he was holding up to his schedule of about 20 miles a day. Mr. Weston, though in his seventy-fifth year, expected to make Minneapolis by August 2, exactly two months after he left. At his start he was given a hearty sendoff by President John H. Finley, of the College of the City of New York, and others in automobiles, watching the pedestrian's start, were a number of well-known persons who have long been interested in Weston, among them Stuyvesant Fish, Colonel William Jay, Thomas P. Fowler, president of the Ontario and Western railway; General Thomas H. Hubbard, E. N. Morgan, Henry Clews and President F. D. Underwood, of the Erie railroad.

SUPERINTENDENT IS FIRED FOR IMMORALITY

One Member of Board, Woman, Would Return Man Who Caused Pupils' Strike.

Pittsburg, June 6.—After many weeks of investigation, the board of education early tonight discharged S. L. Heeter, superintendent of public schools, finding him guilty of immorality in making improper advances and taking unwarranted liberties with women.

Only one member of the board, Miss Beulah Kennard, voted against discharging Heeter. The accused superintendent was not present.

It was after o'clock when the board of education began to vote publicly on the case. Previously the members had studied the transcript of the evidence, over 1,000 pages of testimony, taken by a special committee of six prominent citizens appointed by the board.

Early in March last, a domestic employed by Heeter made two serious charges against him while she was ill in a hospital. He was arrested, indicted and acquitted by a jury in the criminal court. He had been granted a leave of absence during the trial. When he resumed his duties as superintendent after his acquittal, demonstrations or "strikes," participated in by thousands of school children, occurred.

Additional charges that Superintendent Heeter had acted indiscreetly with others resulted in the board of education appointing a citizens' committee to make a thorough investigation. Last Monday the committee made its report, finding Heeter guilty.

Atlanta May Become Terminus Of South's Largest Electric, Freight and Passenger Line

Anderson, S. C., June 6.—(Special.)—The chamber of commerce of this city is taking the initiative in a project which may extend the Greenville, Spartanburg and Anderson railroad, electrically operated, to Atlanta and make that city the southern terminus for a great southern trunk line, which will also be one of the longest electrically operated standard guage railways in the world. The movement grows out of the near completion of the G., S. & A. from Anderson to Durham, N. C., and the talk of projecting it thence to tidewater at Norfolk, Va. Already, the chamber of commerce has appointed a committee to handle the Atlanta extension and prospects in that direction are porpitious.

The Greenville, Spartanburg and Anderson railroad is one of the most remarkable in civilization. Its chief financial backer and president is J. B. Duke, the tobacco multi-millionaire, and the road is as much his pet as the over-sea railroad was the pet of Flagler. The line is projected and practically completed from Anderson to Durham, N. C., and to Winston-Salem, in close proximity to Durham.

Harnessed Water.

Already the link between Anderson and Greenville is completed, and trains, both freight and passenger, are running over it. Work on the section between Greenville and Durham is being pushed rapidly, and soon will be operated. It is then probable that it will be ultimately extended to Norfolk.

The territory through which the road runs is rich in water power. Enough of this has been harnessed by the Duke companies to operate the road. It is a strange sight to ride over a line of this length without being stung by a cinder or once hearing the puff of a locomotive.

A remarkable feature of the road is that it is in every respect a standard one. While it is operated by hydro-electric power the track and equipment have been built so that trains from the G. S. & A. may be switched on to the tracks of standard gauge steam railroads, and actuated by locomotives. The only difference between this road and the finest, most up-to-date steam road in the country is the source of the motive power. Even now, it is exchanging freight with the Southern at Greenville, and it destined to maintain with all the other steam roads the freight and passenger exchange relations that are common in the transportation world of America.

For some time the chamber of com-

BETTER MAIL SERVICE FOR SOUTHERN STATES

Postmaster Burleson Working Out Scheme for Sweeping Reorganization in Fourth.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(Special.)—Postmaster General Burleson and his assistants are working out a scheme for the sweeping reorganization of the railway mail service in the fourth division, which promises a great improvement in mail service in the southeastern states.

George W. Pepper, superintendent, has been marked for dismissal. It is understood here that Edward C. King, who has been assistant for a number of years, will succeed him as division superintendent.

Whether or not Charles Rager, chief clerk to Pepper, will also be dismissed has not yet been definitely determined.

Another feature of the new policy is the separation of the two races in mail cars and elsewhere as much as possible. Under this plan the negro mail clerks would work together in a car on one run, and the white clerks would have a different run.

There are many difficulties in the way of this readjustment, but it will be made if the committee can find the means to bring it about.

Charleston, S. C., June 6.—Attempt to identify C. H. Hill and Henry Eckstorm as robbers of the Atlantic Coast Line mail at Hardeeville, was made by the government prosecutor in the United States district court when the case was brought to trial this afternoon, but little progress was made. The case went over till tomorrow Trailmen told the facts of the robbery.

BRIBERY ATTEMPTED IN CONSPIRACY TRIAL

Juror Says He Was Offered $200 and Position for His Vote—No Verdict Yet.

Boston, June 6.—The jury in the dynamite "planting" conspiracy case, which grew out of the Lawrence textile strike, still was deliberating at a late hour tonight on the question of the guilt of the three alleged conspirators—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company; Frederick E. Atteaux, a dye manufacturer, and Dennis J. Collins, a Cambridge dog fancier.

There was no indication that an early agreement might be reached.

Just be ore court opened today Juror Morris Shuman told Judge Crosby he had been approached with an offer of $200 and a life position if he would agree to vote as directed. The man who approached him would not, it is understood, say for whom he was acting. The grand jury will consider the matter tomorrow.

After a conference with Judge Crosby, District Attorney Pelletier and counsel for the defense, Shuman said he could reach a decision without being influenced by the alleged offer, and he entered the box.

AMERICANS IN MEXICO CRY FOR PROTECTION

300 Declare They Will Take the Situation Up Unless Government Sends Them Aid.

Tampico, Mexico, June 6.—Three hundred Americans located in southern Tamaulipas, representing sixty-eight families, have demanded in a long message to President Wilson, sent through Consul Miller here, to know, "once for all," whether they can expect protection from their home government if since they "do not desire to take measures for our own safety which would embarrass our government without giving due notice beforehand."

The message of the Americans was transmitted by wireless through Consul Miller to W. W. Canada, the American consul at Vera Cruz, to be forwarded to Washington. It says in part:

"Having been left without any protection whatever on the part of both sides in the pending controversy, therefore we can look for protection only from our own country. We must know once for all if we can expect same. Having been subjected to slights and a great variety of indignities and grave abuse during the last few days, the situation calls for most serious preparations for our personal safety and the defense of our families and our interests. Therefore we have assembled for the purpose of considering the best way. We consider protection necessary now since that after death it will be of no utility.

"We consider the lives of ourselves and our families in danger, and the situation has justified this petition several times in the last few days. It is no longer doubtful that the slightest spark will bring on the dread conflagration at any moment. In many instances the small arms sold American citizens on the part of the American government for their protection have been demanded and in some instances they have been taken."

WILSON AND SECRET CAUCUS ARE ROASTED BY TOWNSEND BEFORE LOBBY COMMITTEE

REVISION OF TAXES TO COME THIS YEAR

Both Governors Will Call Legislature's Attention to Financial Needs—Comptroller Wright's Views.

Probably the most important and certainly the most perplexing problem that will present itself to the legislature when it meets at the end of this month, will be the revision of the tax system of the state.

True, it is not a new question by any means. Legislatures have tackled it before. Governors have urged its necessity in their annual messages. In particular, Governor Brown has recommended tax revision and equalization in every message that he has sent to the general assembly since he has sat in the gubernatorial chair. Still, nothing has been done so far.

Will Be Urged This Year.

This year, however, the condition of the state's finances is such that, in the opinion of state-house officers and of members of the legislature who have been interviewed on the subject, some sort of relief measure must come. The question will be presented to the lawmakers in such a way that they cannot evade it. It is too early to predict that the governor's message to the general assembly this year will contain, but it is quite certain that a considerable part of the farewell message of Governor Hoke Smith, the initial message of Governor-elect Slaton will be devoted to this question of a revision of the state's system of finance.

Both governors are wideawake to the fact that the present system has broken down long ago and proved altogether defective. It is not likely that Governor Brown will do more than call the legislature's attention to the deplorable conditions brought about by the system in vogue, leaving it to his successor to prescribe a remedy. It is known that the incoming executive has devoted much time and study since his election to this subject, and he has, doubtless, formulated a definite and feasible measure of relief for legislative action.

New Bills Coming.

Members of the legislature have also given much thought to the solution of the problem and several of them will have bills to present as soon as the lawmaking body meets.

There is a measure providing for an equalization board that will be presented by Representative Lipscomb, of Clarke.

O. T. Gower, of Crisp, the author of the new insurance law which passed the last general assembly, has been in correspondence with Comptroller General W. A. Wright on the subject, and it is said that he is preparing a bill that will meet all the defects of the present system.

Comptroller Wright's Views.

There is probably no man in the state who has given the subject longer and deeper study than has Comptroller General Wright, who has been at the head of the state's department of revenue for more than a generation and whose advice will undoubtedly be sought in whatever measures of relief are proposed this summer. Mr. Wright admits that the problem is a most difficult one, the most difficult, in fact, that he has ever put his mind to. Discussing the situation, he said:

"I believe that some measure of tax revision and adjustment will be enacted by the legislature this summer for the very simple reason that it cannot be delayed longer. The state's needs have been expanding yearly with its growth and the development of the various institutions looking to it for support, while we have about reached the limit of revenue that can be raised under the present system. I do not mean that tax values will not increase, but they cannot keep pace with the demands upon the treasury, and the limit in the tax rate long ago has been reached. Appropriations are running ahead of income.

How to Reach Invisible Property.

"There are some features of it that I admit I have found no solution for, after years of study and a close examination of the laws of other states. But one of these is how to reach invisible property. Innumerable plans have been suggested to me, it was used by the president in his recent statement, upon which this investigation was founded, it means one who tries to secure or prevent legislation by the use of means that are improper; by the offer of payment of money, the granting or withholding of favors, by insidious threats of political opposition, by the use of patronage or the giving of political rewards. As I knew of no improper lobbyist of that kind, the nearest approach to undue influence exerted on members of congress, I believe that is exercised by the president and by the use of the party secret caucus."

Charges of Coercion.

"Do you mean to say that is lobbying?" demanded Senator Reed.

"A lobbyist is a man who attempts to influence legislation against the honest conviction, the conscience and the notions of duty of the legislator," returned Senator Townsend. "Because of the insinuation that a lobby exists to influence them to vote for amendments they believe in, I think some senators will refrain from so voting. This, I believe, is coercion."

"You believe there is a species of lobbying from the executive, as we as the outside?" asked Senator Cummins.

"Yes, sir, I have no doubt of it," replied Senator Townsend.

"Democratic leaders have been reported as saying, 'This is to be a matter the president must decide and in order to be a good democrat and receive the proper amount of patronage and not perhaps be opposed, you must support the party measure.'

"Do you know any human being who can say as a matter of fact that President Wilson has either withheld or given appointments to affect the vote of any man in congress?" demanded Senator Reed.

"No, I don't. I know only what I have heard rumored and seen in the papers," said Senator Townsend.

Senator Weeks testified he severed his connection with the banking and commercial concerns when he was

Senator Crawford today introduced a bill to require registration of all persons, firms and associations before committees, to limit their appearance to regular session only, make it unlawful for any persons to attempt to influence any senator or representative individually, and make it unlawful also for any such persons, even if former members of congress, to appear upon the floor of either branch of congress.

It also would require corporations or others who had agents before committees to file a statement within 10 days after adjournment of each session showing the names elected to the senate. He said three or four men had called upon him who might be called lobbyists.

They were not promoting or opposing legislation, so as he understands, but gathering information for members of their associations.

Senator Shively testified he had no personal knowledge of a lobby.

Senator Cummins said the actual flooding of Senators with telegrams and letters was the only practice he had observed in Washington that was wrong and

Senator Page, of Vermont, thought the operations of Indian attorneys in Washington in relation to claims and attorneys' contracts came near to being of a lobbying character."

SEABOARD SHOPS WILL REMAIN AT AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—Despite reports to the contrary, none of the machinery or equipment has been removed from the Americus shops of the Seaboard railway, which employs 200 men, nor is there any assurance that the shops will be removed elsewhere.

Many machinists have been sent to Jacksonville and Savannah, where they are more needed than here just now.

President Harahan, of the Seaboard, will arrive in Americus next Wednesday for the purpose of thoroughly investigating conditions here.

RECALL OF JUDGES FAVORED AT TECH

S. D. Frankel, Speaker on the Affirmative Side, Awarded Prize for the Best Address Made.

A debate last night on the recall of judges in Georgia was the opening feature of the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Georgia School of Technology. S. D. Frankel, of the senior class, won the individual prize for his speech in favor of the recall, and his colleague, on the winning affirmative team, was W. P. Rayson, of Jesup.

The judges were J. W. Austin, A. C. King, J. S. Fleet and the Rev. C. W. Daniel, and they selected, not only the winning team, but also the winner of the George Muse company medal for the best debater.

The debate was closely contested, and the negative was supported by S. A. Gayle, of Columbus, of the freshman class, and L. C. Gordon, of Atlanta, a sophomore.

The debate was staged in the Tech Y. M. C. A. auditorium, under the auspices of the Henry W. Grady Literary society. All of the speakers were chosen in competition in a preliminary contest last February. The hall was most beautifully decorated in the school colors. Yellow and white curtains draped the windows, and American flags mingled with the Tech ensign draped the balcony, the walls and the stage of the assembly hall.

The contest was presided over by Professor E. W. D. Boogher, and the Tech orchestra opened and concluded the program, arousing considerable enthusiasm when they played the college songs.

ATTACKS MANAGEMENT OF FRISCO RAILROAD

Representative Hinebaugh Urges That Commerce Commission Investigate Company.

Washington, June 6.—A spirited attack on the financial management of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad was made in the house today by Representative Hinebaugh, of Illinois, in a speech urging the adoption of his resolution directing the interstate commerce commission to investigate the operations of the company now in receivership.

"This resolution should be passed," he said, "and an investigation made if for no other reason than this receivership had already been given as a reason why freight rates should be raised. As usual the public is asked to hold the bag and pay the fiddler when the operations of these gentlemen who are given to frenzied finance are brought to bait.

"Many persons who have bought securities this company has sold during the last three years are anxious to know what portion of that money found its way into the treasury of the company, and how much was diverted into the pockets of certain officials.

"I am more than satisfied that a thorough investigation by the interstate commerce commission will demonstrate that the Frisco system, under the management of B. F. Yoakum, has never been conducted as a legitimate transportation company, but that it has been made the basis of a tremendous jobbing scheme to enrich the men who have been in a position to manipulate its securities. I believe it will also be found that great volumes of the stocks and bonds of this company have been sold far in excess of the true value of the tangible property owned by the company."

Representative Hinebaugh charged that the receivership was not actually necessary.

Dr. Bricker has been delivering a series of sermon-stories on Sunday evenings at intervals during the past few months that have attracted much attention.

STATE COMMERCE CHAMBER IN SIGHT

Movement Is Given Hearty Indorsement and Funds for Preliminary Organization Advanced.

Another step was taken towards the organization of a state chamber of commerce by the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce yesterday when they made an appropriation to cover the preliminary expenses of the organization of a state-wide body. Those who are behind the movement are now more in earnest than ever, and they have little doubt that an effective organization will be completed this summer.

It is proposed to call a meeting at an early date of the officers of the various chambers of commerce in the state and also to have the county officials send delegates from counties in which there are no local boards.

Mr. Haden's Report.

C. J. Haden, chairman of the committee on a state chamber of commerce, made a report to the directors in which he outlined the plan which the organizers of a state-wide chamber propose to follow. One end to be effected by a central state organization is the coordination and co-operation of the various commercial bodies already existing, but the promoters of the new chamber of commerce do not stop with that. They hope to reach every farmer in the state and to bring about a fraternal inter-relationship between city and country in a way that will be beneficial to both. In doing this they expect to enlist the united support of every element in the state in all movements for the common good.

"Such a combination as we hope to achieve in the interest of all will be irresistible," said Mr. Haden, when discussing the proposition yesterday. "It has been tried in California with the result that California products are the most extensively advertised of any in the world and California fruits have monopolized a great many markets."

It is the intention of the chamber of commerce here to put into the field at once three of the best organizers in the state. One of these whose services have been enlisted in the movement is Professor J. Phil Campbell, of Athens, whose work in organizing corn clubs throughout the state is well known.

Will Appeal to Farmers.

In perfecting the organization, a different method will be tried from any hitherto used. Mr. Campbell and the other organizers will take the matter up at the farmers institutes to be held in the counties this summer. An effort will be made to get the farmers to organize in every locality and there is every assurance, according to Mr. Haden, that seventy-five or eighty counties will be organized by the end of the summer.

The state organization is expected to act as sort of clearing house for all of the local bodies. Suggestions will be received from the district organizations in all parts of the state and an efficient press bureau will keep the attention of the nation at large on Georgia and her wonderful resources. Exhibits in farming and other lines of business will be secured through the central bureau to keep the farmers of the state informed as to the most recent scientific methods of agriculture.

After giving the plan as outlined by Mr. Haden its hearty indorsement, the board of directors agreed to advance the money necessary for the preliminary work of organization. It is expected that this will be returned by the state chamber of commerce as soon as a permanent organization is effected.

FREE-THINKERS TO ORGANIZE SOCIETY SUNDAY AFTERNOON

"Freedom of thought in secular, religious and civic affairs."

This is the sloken at an organization meeting which will be held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at 57½ East Hunter street, when a society of free-thinkers is to be formed.

A number of Atlanta men, who declare they have felt in their souls the necessity for free thought in the affairs of the world, have issued a call to their friends and others who sympathize with the movement to gather at this time and discuss plans for a permanent, active organization in Atlanta. Among those who in the past few days have become actively interested in the plans are Joseph T. Dabney, Benjamin Daniel, W. M. Hairston, and Jones Brown.

While it is declared that this will be in no way an "atheistic society," it is explained that it will reach out into new and interesting lines for discussion and research at its meetings. The plans for the society include a large, circulating library, which will probably be established early in the summer.

ATLANTA LAW SCHOOL GRADUATION TONIGHT

Graduating thirty-four men from twelve states, the commencement exercises of the Atlanta Law school, which will take place at the Grand Opera house at 8:30 o'clock tonight, have aroused widespread interest, especially among members of the local bar. A good-sized audience will assemble to hear the program, and the principal address of the evening will be by Hon. W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, Ga., one of the most eloquent orators in the state. A general invitation has been extended by the faculty to the friends of the graduates, and the patrons of the law school.

The following men will be graduated tonight: G. W. Anderson, P. L. Bartlett, B. E. Brewster, W. J. Bird, W. Brooks, W. F. Buchanan, Allen Mitchell Burdett, L. W. Camp, W. O. Cheney, E. R. Clarkson, A. A. Dowda, F. I. Dovell, J. M. Eddy, P. B. Foster, A. C. Franks, G. W. Franks, J. A. Gallogly, L. J. Grossman, C. F. Huppe, R. H. Lindsay, W. E. Morgan, G. G. Osborne, J. M. Owens, G. W. Parker, J. J. Slaton, B. Stockbridge, B. H. Sullivan, H. B. Terrell, S. B. Tighe, R. B. Trimble, L. Veasey, W. M. Warren, M. H. Wilensky.

After the presentation of diplomas, the class honors will be announced, and Blair Foster will then deliver the valedictory for the class.

The graduates and members of the faculty will attend a banquet at the University club, following the commencement exercises. Basil Stockbridge will act as toastmaster, and the speakers will be Hamilton Douglas, George Westmoreland, [illegible]yllie Owen Cheney, George G. Osborne and Leonard Grossman.

COUNT THE COST

"Judas, betrayest thou the Son of Man with a kiss?"

When you are tempted to fight against the good—

And to this you are about to add hypocritical treachery, pretending love for that which you are trying to destroy—

Remember Judas kissing the Saviour.

And do it not.

They crucified Christ, but they scorned Judas, who lost his soul.

He failed to count the cost.

Make not the same mistake.

You are warned when Jesus says:

"Whosoever doth not bear his own cross and come after Me can not be my disciple.

"For which of you, desiring to build a tower, doth not first sit down and count the cost, whether he have wherewith to complete it?

"Lest haply, when he hath laid a foundation, and is not able to finish, all that behold begin to mock him saying:

"THIS MAN BEGAN TO BUILD AND WAS NOT ABLE TO FINISH."

Count the cost.

And answer:—

"What is a man profited if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

When the liquor dealers and the landlords of the houses which were in our midst stand before the judgment bar of God, that seven hundred thousand dollars of trade, that sixty thousand dollars of rent squeezed annually from the souls of fallen women will scarcely compensate those liquor dealers and landlords for the ruin of the numberless girls necessary to carry on the infamous traffic.

All of the foul gold of years will not outweigh those thirteen little girls under ten years of age suffering in Grady Hospital from hideous infection.

Neither will it balance the broken hearts of mothers of babies blinded at birth.

Nor will it offset the deadly weight of the sorrow and suffering of the mothers and fathers of these girls betrayed.

Count the cost.

AND YOU WILL JOIN THE FIGHT AGAINST THE SOCIAL EVIL.

It has only begun in Atlanta.

And every imaginable falsehood will be told by servants of Satan to hinder it.

Therefore, when you hear any statement, consider carefully its source.

When a man prating of morality advocates licensed immorality and seeks to besmear with slime police officials who are doing and who have done their duty, EXAMINE THE MAN'S PAST, his friends and connections.

Ask:— Is he connected directly or indirectly with the liquor traffic?

Has he been so connected in the past?

Has he ever been employed—is he now employed by any one or more of those charged with violating the laws against prostitution?

And, when one claims that vice has been scattered but not lessened in Atlanta, make the same inquiries and refer him to this Committee; for he is either in error or lying, as can be easily shown.

Conditions at the time of Chief Beavers' order closing the houses were accurately known to this Committee.

And the work of the Chief and his men—the co-operation of almost all of our public officials, city and county, have far exceeded the hopes of this Committee and demonstrated that ATLANTA NEEDS NO OUTSIDE HELP IN SOLVING HER PROBLEMS.

But remember, this is a work of years and generations, not of months and days.

Burglary, arson and murder—which were never fostered by the lie of segregation—are still here.

But in Atlanta the pimp, the panderer and those who would live or profit by the shame of women are losing hope.

Therefore, when their friends or their employees protest against "the frightful immorality" of our city and "the corruption" of the police and detective force which has put them out of business, those who know smile in pity.

FOR PROTECTED VICE IS DEAD.

Some people believe that a snake with a broken back will not die until sunset.

Notwithstanding its twisting and writhing, intelligent men know that the creature is dead when its spinal cord has been snapped.

The writhing and twisting are spasmodic; they will grow less and less.

Protected vice is dead. Months ago its spinal cord was broken by our Police Force.

Count the cost. You would not revive, if you could, your city's shame.

Remember Judas and his kiss.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD MOVEMENT

ANOTHER SCHOOL ASKED FOR DEAF

Georgia Association For Deaf Passes Resolutions Declaring Cave Spring School Is Inaccessible.

Macon, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—The Georgia Association for the Deaf adjourned at noon today, after a busy session which began at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

A resolution calling on the legislature to establish a branch school for the deaf in middle or south Georgia and condemning the movement to do away with the teaching of signs and the substitution of the oral methods was unanimously adopted. Cave Spring was selected as the meeting place for next year.

The following were the officers elected today:

President—J. H. Marchman, Savannah.

First Vice President—W. P. Ligman, Atlanta.

Second Vice President—W. R. Jones.

Recording Secretary—J. H. Stallings, Lithonia.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. C. L. Jackson, Atlanta.

Treasurer—Mrs. M. K. Magill.

The Atlanta delegation made an effort to have the next convention in that city, but the majority of the delegates desired to pay a visit to the state school at Cave Spring, and the choice was almost unanimous on the first ballot. The Cave Spring invitation was extended by the trustees of the state school, through Superintendent Connor.

Another School Wanted

Mr. Connor appeared before the convention this morning and told of the work that is being done at the state school. He did not oppose the establishment of a branch school in middle or south Georgia, but advised against doing anything that would disturb the present school.

It was the unanimous opinion of the convention that the state can afford to support two schools and that the crying needs of the deaf in middle and south Georgia should be investigated. No criticism was made of the management of affairs at Cave Springs, but on the other hand there was considerable praise for the way in which the school is conducted.

The following was the resolution asking for a branch school:

"Whereas, Cave Spring, at which place is situated the State School for the Deaf and Dumb, is an out-of-the-way place, and expensive for the general public of the southern part of the state, much more so, for deaf and dumb children to reach, and

"Whereas, There are scores of grown-up deaf and dumb persons without any education, living in the southern part of the state, being so, because when young, they were unable to go to Cave Spring because of the reasons mentioned above and the destituteness of the parents, and furthermore there are upwards of a hundred deaf and dumb children now in the central and southern parts of the state that cannot go to Cave Spring for the reasons mentioned above, and

"Whereas, There are many energetic and progressive towns easily reached by railway in the southern part of the state which would readily and willingly donate land and probably funds to start a branch institution for the deaf and dumb for the many unfortunate deaf and dumb children, therefore be it

"Resolved by the Georgia Association of the Deaf and Dumb now (June 5-6-13) in session at Macon, Ga., do appoint a committee of five or three from among its members and two gentlemen friends in the deaf, to petition the governor and legislature of the state to create a branch school for the deaf in some of the progressive towns most conveniently situated for the purpose.

"Be it resolved, That this convention earnestly ask all public-spirited and interested citizens, both in the northern and southern part of the state, to lend us their aid in starting this branch school in the southern part of the state, and thereby give all the deaf and dumb children an equal opportunity to obtain an education and a means to earn a living.

"Respectfully submitted,
"MRS. C. L. JACKSON,
"Chairman.
"MISS M. K. MAGILL,
"GUS STALLINGS,
"Committee."

Train Wrecks Auto.

Macon, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—W. E. Dunwody, president of the Cherokee Brick company, had a narrow escape from death this morning at the crossing of the Central railroad on the Waterville road. He was en route to the brick plant in his automobile, but had stopped at the crossing when he saw a freight train moving in his direction. The train stopped before reaching the crossing and thinking the coast clear, Mr. Dunwody started his machine across the crossing. He had gone only a few feet when a coal car, which had been cut loose to be shunted in on a siding, struck his machine directly in the center. Mr. Dunwody jumped but the automobile was demolished.

$25,000 Judgment.

Macon, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—A judgment for $25,000 against P. C. Wadsworth, of Birmingham, Ala., was rendered in the Bibb county superior court this morning, in favor of W. D. Nesbitt.

It was alleged that Mr. Wadsworth, as an officer of the Southern States Cotton corporation, had agreed to give $25,000 to assist in the promotion and organization of the company and that he failed to live up to his contract. Forty-seven shares of stock in the company, held by Mr. Wadsworth were levied upon.

Mr. Wadsworth did not appear to defend the suit, but his attorney, A. L. Dasher made a formal showing. The court directed that a judgment of $25,000 be given. This gives the plaintiff the forty-seven shares of stock valued at $5,000 and a lein on any other property that Mr. Wadsworth may have.

Bible School Census.

Macon, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—Bibb county has 18,700 children of school age, according to the school census, which has just recently been completed. This is an increase of 2,259 in five years and is considered a good showing for the growth of the county, though some of the members [illegible] of education had expected the figures to reach 20,000.

Practically all the increases have been shown in the city districts, there being very little change in any of the country districts. Vineville had the largest growth, showing a total of 3,400, or an increase of 700 in the five years.

The state pays close to $3 a year for each child of school age in the county, and for the next five year Bibb county will receive about $6,000 more than she has in the past.

POLICE JOIN SEARCH FOR PET DOG'S GRAVE

Thoughts of the ghost of Snookums are worrying Mrs. J. DuPree, of 42 Hendrix avenue.

No—Snookums is not a baby, but a pet poodle dog that was. Snookums departed this life April 20. When she pet died, Mr. DuPree was ill, and could not see that the last sad rites were properly administered, so a passing negro acted as undertaker and chief pallbearer.

Now, Mrs. DuPree wants to find the grave of Snookums, and honor his memory with a suitable headstone. the police have been requested to help in the search, but so far no clue of his grave has been found, and in all probability it will remain, as thousands of others, unknown, though deeply mourned.

CROOKS IN LEAGUE WITH GOTHAM COPS

Scathing Arraignment of New York's Detective Department in Report of Curran Investigating Committee.

New York, June 6.—Scathing arraignment of the detective bureau of the New York police department and a charge that a partnership exists between some detectives and criminals, are contained in the third section of the Curran committee report on police conditions, submitted to the board of aldermen today. A brisk fight over the report's adopted was expected.

Benjamin Levy," says the report, "who had never been convicted of a crime, testified that at the request of officials in the detective bureau, he had often induced criminals to commit burglary in order that they might be arrested. He was strongly corroborated by reputable citizens, including an official of an insurance company, a merchant and others.

"Levy testified that in one case Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, in charge of the detective bureau, gave him $25 with which to purchase burglar tools, and after he succeeded in the burglary, paid him $75 for his services. City vouchers for these amounts in Levy's favor were found in the comptroller's office.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and others involved were subpoenaed by us and asked to waive immunity before giving their testimony. This they refused, with one exception and they were not interrogated. Notwithstanding the shocking nature of this testimony and the corroboration received, the commissioner has taken no action whatever in the premises. It is not surprising that under such lax discipline some detectives turn thieves."

In conclusion the report says the bureau is hopelessly ineffecient and should be reorganized along draastic lines.

Commissioner Dougherty issued a statement this afternoon branding the committee report as a "sample of malice and lies worthy of the trade talent of a professional crook." It was too absurd to discuss in detail, he said.

VICE PROBE DROPPED FOR SEVERAL WEEKS

Routine Grand Jury Business Will Be Given Consideration in Meantime.

Because of the press of routine business the grand jury will not resume its vice probe until week after next. The fact that the jury would not do any more probing became apparent when Foreman Lewis H. Beck stated that Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey told him that he had enough routine matters to keep the mbusy for a week or two.

Foreman Beck says that it is up to the other members of the grand jury whether or not the vice probe is to be continued. After Solicitor Dorsey is through with the criminal calendar. He stated that the jury has already gone far into the complaints against vice conditions, and that possibly there may be some other phase developed during the hearing of evidence, to be taken up.

Chief Beavers charges that the courts of Georgia have made it impossible for him to close the most notorious resort in Atlanta. The chief referred to the house on Spring street which figured in the grand jury investigations.

S. C. Glass, a member of the grand jury, says that the Philadelphia minister has not far exaggerated conditions in Atlanta. He says that he knows of the existence of the house in Spring street, and will demand that the jury continue its investigation for the purpose of getting facts about the house in the report.

Chief Beavers has made arrangements to attend the convention of police chiefs, to be held in Washington, D. C., next week. Before leaving Chief Beavers informed the grand jury of the fact that he would be absent next week, and was informed by Foreman Beck that he would not be needed.

CAPITALISTS WILLING TO INVEST IN STATE

William Hurd Hillyer Discusses Financial Situation in Northern Cities.

"The eagerness of northern and eastern capitalists to invest their money in southern mortgage loans and especially in those on Georgia property, impressed me more strongly than anything else," said William Hurd Hillyer, who has recently returned from a trip through the larger northern cities.

Mr. Hillyer was discussing the financial situation and expressing his views of the attitude of the other financial leaders of the country to the south.

"I found that the capitalists were willing to put money into Georgia, and I would not be surprised to see a lot of it turned loose here within six months," he continued.

"There seems to be as much willingness to lend money on farm and country securities as on those in the city and it speaks well for conditions in this section."

Mr. Hillyer, who came in contact with a number of leading bankers in New York, Philadelphia and Boston, was also pleased with the way in which southern securities acted on the New York exchange when there was a recent general depression of the market.

BROYLES LAUDS BEAVERS

Double Standard of Morality Day Passed.

Declaring that the day of the double standard of morality has passed, proclaiming Chief James L. Beavers, of Atlanta, as a greater man than Julius Caesar ever was, and declaring that the British empire is far better governed than our nation, City Recorder Nash R. Broyles delivered a strong lecture on "Citizenship" Thursday night at the Inman Park Presbyterian church.

Judge Broyles said that when Beavers closed up the houses in the segregated district, that he took his job and his life in his hands, and it was a feat far greater than when Imperial Caesar crossed the Rubicon to capture Rome of old. Caesar, he said, made himself a law-breaker to battle for his cause, while Beavers, on the other hand, upheld the law, which his own constituents had made, thereby becoming a defender of the law.

Recorder Broyles also paid his respects to the city of Birmingham, saying that in the year 1913 only twenty murders were recorded in London, while for the same space of time in Birmingham, 396 murders were committed. Judge Broyles informed his hearers that London had 7,000,000,000 people withi nits borders, while Birmingham, Ala., had only 140,000 souls.

A WELL-CALLED HALT!

If the Phagan tragedy shall produce no other result than the recent "shut-up" order of the detective department it will not be entirely lacking in compensation. Henceforth, if the spirit as well as the letter of the order is observed, detectives who blab to reporters or anyone else of cases on which they are working will be subject to suspension. And the inference is plain that even the head of the department understands now he is not immune to the ban of silence.

It is high time the authorities took this position, even if it required the threat of a grand jury investigation to bring it about. It is doubtful if in the police history of Atlanta there has been more systematic "spilling" to the newspapers than in the Phagan case. A "leak?" Deluge is a more accurate word. From start to finish it has seemed to be a scramble as to which of the detectives engaged on this important case could beat the other to the limelight. Vital affidavits have been freely tendered to reporters, carbon copies of the original having been carefully prepared for all the newspapers even before being presented to the solicitor general. The whole investigation has been conducted with newspaper men as an audience. Whatever safeguards were thrown around to secure secrecy have been neither horse-high nor hog-tight. News has not leaked, but gushed forth. No wonder the grand jury took the matter in hand!

The Constitution, as a newspaper, has printed what official information it could get, and it will continue to do so, but that does not warrant the free manner in which every turn in the case has been given out. Such a course jeopardizes the efficiency of the courts, and that, under certain circumstances might easily lead to a miscarriage of justice.

Newspapers are not the tribunals in which to try causes. That fool idea has done enough damage, in this as in other cases. There is plenty of the limelight for men who deserve it. But an undue surrender to the craving is a dereliction of duty and is apt to thwart justice.

A MINISTERIAL MUNCHAUSEN.

We fancy the Rev. Dr. Zane Batten should offer an object of curiosity to the alienist rather than of credibility to the reading public. There is something abnormal mentally with the man who can believe he has been solicited nineteen times in one block by lewd women in Atlanta; and that his companion, taking the other side of the street, has been approached twenty-one times. The other explanation is that he possesses that diseased type of imagination which delights in visiting strange places and recounting weird stories of his travels. Dr. John E. White testifies that such is the weakness of the reverend Batten. But he should at least have chosen a field lending greater color to his yarns than does Atlanta. This city isn't the new Jerusalem, as is no other American municipality of its size. But the evil he deplores simply doesn't exist here on a scale even remotely approximating the accounts credited to him. It is simply fiction out of the whole cloth, as any resident of Atlanta can testify, and as any guest in possession of his normal faculty can also testify. See the testimony, published elsewhere, of J. F. Lee, a prominent citizen of Royston.

Atlanta is probably cleaner morally than any city of its importance in America. That allegation is not founded simply on the claim of local authorities or specialists. It is the testimony of all outside visitors who inspect thoroughly and report truthfully. Many who have read inexcusable distortions of conditions here following the closing of the "houses in our midst" have come to see for themselves and gone away to sing the praises of the city.

In the face of this situation, it is exasperating to have such wild and unfounded reports as that of this ministerial Munchausen given circulation.

Atlanta has suffered enough from the muckrakers and the sobsquadders without being indicted by an irresponsible pulpiteer.

THE SOUTH'S OPEN DOOR.

An open door to prosperity is offered the south in the beef and sheep industries. The opportunity is emphasized by a recent bulletin of the federal department of agriculture. The department had instituted an investigation to uncover reasons for the high cost of beef. As a result, it discovered that in 1907 there were in the United States 51,566,300 beef cattle, and at the beginning of the present year 50,030,000. This is a decrease in six years of 30 per cent. If no agencies are put to work to stop this rapid decrease in live stock for food purposes, it is logical to assume that as time goes on and population increases meats will become prohibitive in price.

A prominent official of the United States department of agriculture had this menace in mind when, the other day, he declared that the south was the future beef supply for the nation. He showed what all those informed know to be true, that the vast cattle ranches in the west have practically disappeared. They have been and are being cut up into small farms. The great cattle baronies that used to send millions of cattle to the abattoirs of the nation are things of the past. The cattle king is giving way to the small farmer and the small grazer. In the meantime, the country is paying the penalty in prices for beef that are going skyward, and that give no indication of coming back to the old normal. This is, of course, leaving out of consideration altogether the other influences that make for higher beef.

There is every reason why the south, and Georgia especially, should step into the breach thus created and take largely the place once pre-empted by the west in the beef and sheep industry. The one-time western advantage of tremendous ranches has been removed. Georgia with her great acreage capable of being cut up into small ranches is on an equality in that respect with the west; in the respects of climate and soil that will produce crops ideally suited to the sustenance and fattening of cattle, she enjoys a distinct superiority. In the matter of sheep, too, he handicap is obvious. Sheep flourish in country that is combined of mountain and plateau. The Georgia Blue Ridge offers these conditions in unbeatable proportions. Eight or ten of the mountain counties can produce enough sheep to feed not only the entire state, but also to pile up a big export margin. Sheep growing is, therefore, an assured source of profit not only to the small farmers that dot the Georgia Blue Ridge, but also to capital that may decide to enter from the outside. When will Georgia farmers and mountaineers awaken to the gold mine they are now neglecting in this respect?

Happiness is in store for mankind. A woman's paper says: "Out of fifty June brides forty-nine have written to say that they are graduates of cooking schools."

Prominent Georgian Riddles Fake 'ol Dr. Batten

Editor Constitution: I dislike to bother with the affairs of other people; but, being a Georgian, I am naturally interested in the welfare of our capital city and do not like to see it assailed unjustly. Have just read the news in your issue of today and was amazed at the statement credited to the Rev. S. Zane Batten, of Philadelphia, with reference to vice conditions in Atlanta in which he is credited with stating that he was approached and solicited for immoral purposes on the streets nineteen times.

Now, I am only 31 years old, and during the past ten years have been on the streets of Atlanta many times each year, often at night and not in company with anyone, and while I was not doing detective work or attempting to probe vice conditions, not once have I ever been approached or solicited for any such purpose, and while I regret I feel like discrediting a statement made by a minister, having a high regard for their calling, I seriously doubt the truth of the statement referred to and hope it was misquoted by someone. I have not seen any evidence of such things in Atlanta on any of my visits there.

DANGERS AND DUTIES OF SOUTH POINTED OUT BY DR. WHITE

Macon, Ga., June 6.—(Special)—The address of the commencement at Mercer was delivered Tuesday night by Dr. John E. White, of Atlanta, to a large audience. The subject was "The House of Our Fathers." It was in the nature of a message to southern young men on the present outlook of the south in relation to national affairs.

"We are in the house of our fathers, our brothers and our companions, and we are at home to stay, thank God," was not at the time of Senator Hill's utterance the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and that now for the first time in fifty years the fact Senator Hill asserted is in the reach of reality and has become a situation for practical consideration.

Dr. White summarized his address in eight propositions, which were fully discussed and illustrated:

That with a southern man in the presidency, a majority of southern men in the cabinet, and southern leaders in control of congress, the southern people may assert as reality and experience: "We are in the house of our fathers, our brothers are our companions, and we are at home to stay, thank God."

That this fact is now submitting to the south a serious test whether we are prepared to reassume responsible national leadership for the whole country, and whether our capacity for a large constructive politics has suffered the loss of any of its vital elements during the half-century of essential divine so far as the governing policies of the nation are concerned.

Moral Obligation.

That the south's approach to the opportunity now presented must be in the antebellum temper, and start at the fact that this republic is "the house of our fathers," and that the primary moral obligation is to think in national terms and to act under the inspiration of national ideals must be accepted in good purpose of conscience.

That the indestructible unions of indestructible states" was the deep-rooted passion of southerners, and that the agitations of the secession period never successfully overcame the reluctance of the majority of the southern people to disrupt the union. The success of secession was foredoomed in this moral repugnance, and we are now able adequately to estimate it as one of the profound explanations of the failure of the confederacy and the defeat of the civil war.

Pathetic Enterprise.

That viewed as it will be in the dry light of southern intelligence, the secession movement will be regarded as the most pathetic and disastrous vast enterprise of history. While we gather and forever preserve the pure gold of southern honor and heroism that emerged out of the ash-heaps of the race of the war itself, there is little gold of moral glory to be cherished from the quarrelsome passions on both sides that led to it. We may confidently anticipate that the verdict of the southern conscience will be ultimately registered in applause of the men who opposed the ordinances of secession in the several states and strove to the limit to avert the foreseen catastrophe.

That the really tragic loss of the secession movement of the war and its entail was not in the passive, nor in the active devastations and ruin of armies, but it was the arrest of southern national life, the limitations of southern interest for half a century, the far-reaching consequences of this, regarding and morbid motives, and the withdrawal from the nation's affairs at home and abroad of its most intense Anglo-Saxon force, which ceased in such a large degree to participate influentially in America's mission to the world.

That the southern people, with these things behind them to be realized, are at a momentous epoch now when they are called on to take again the responsible part in the national affairs. Are we prepared to take up where we left off in 1860? Have we lost any vital element of civic and moral capacity in our wilderness of political inertia and our detachment from national opportunity? These questions may not be fairly tested by the success or failure of the Woodrow Wilson administration, but they are to be tested out in the immediate future. It is a time when the southern people are to inventory their civilization. It is a great day for us and the sun is in the sky are for the most part blinded. The record of the part few months at Washington is up to the level of the best traditions of southern statesmanship. The simplicity and directness of democracy is being given a new accentuation and the best of the southern men, now in direction of the nation's affairs. The ridiculo-moral point of view of the charge of "sectionalism" in Washington at this time than it has been in any hour since the Philadelphia convention of 1787, that produced the federal constitution. Was formally organized into a power manifesting in the motion of Ben Franklin. The Underwood tariff bill is the sincerest moral deed any great political party ever actually put forth in fidelity to public pledge. The straightforward honesty of the president, the square and stubborn consistency of Champ Clark and Oscar Underwood in the new tariff bill is the most invigorating specimen of political fidelity this country has witnessed in a half-century.

A Severe Test.

But the ability of the south to come back permanently into national power must abide a severer test than national politics can subject it to in the test of our own local and sectional civilization. Four issues now confront the people of these states concerned in their own behalf and with the necessities of their own situation.

First—The question of education—a trained citizenship—the relief of illiteracy. The fact that our population is 16 per cent of the whole but that our illiteracy is 33 per cent of the total backwardness of the United States, is one that bears directly on the outlook of the south for national success.

Second—The question of public breadth and sympathy, of social consciousness, of amenability to the fixed standards of Christian civilization. The southern people cannot expect a great permanent expansion of political leadership unless it accepts the full obligations of it, be interested in the public mind, whether it be white humanity, yellow humanity, or black humanity.

Third—The question of being true to ourselves, of truthful self-examination of the people. The south is a candidate for the counsel which dares to look in the glass frankly, and that resolutely takes over to itself the task of candid self-criticism and correction.

Fourth—The questions of ideal and leadership. The question is in the rich characteristic of whether it shall be of the quality ante-bellum or post-bellum—the cool, steadfast, tolerant, thoughtful man, nobly just, sincerely conservative and passionately chivalric, or the waspish, agitated, precipitous, offensively sensitive man, intemperately prejudiced, and indifferent to brutality as who relishes clazes, foments feuds, fattens on factions, and defiantly challenges law and the conscience of history. Both these types have played a part in the past history of the south, both are ancestral to the present generation. It is not the older men who must make the great distinctions of southern heredity, but the younger men who will preserve that which may be proudly preserved out of a heroic heritage, and who will take the southern banner forward, asking honor for nothing which may not be submitted to the scrutiny and the judgment of mankind.

The World's Mysteries

SIMONIDES, THE FORGER

When 1830 was drawing to a close there died in an Albanian village one of the most remarkable characters that has ever been brought prominently to public notice. His name was Alcibiades Simonides. He is said to have been a native of Syrene, and was born about 1818. He was a man of varied accomplishments and for that reason was ably fitted to fool the scholars and eminent notables with whom he came in contact. He was especially eminent as an artist and a lithographer. His learning was profound. He was a fluent and persuasive speaker and was gifted with extraordinary industry.

Being so unfortunate as to lack a conscience, Simonides utilized all these talents by becoming a forger of ancient documents. His first public appearance was in Athens, when he was 25 years old. Upon this visit he laid before the king and queen of that country several apparently priceless manuscripts. Many of them were works whose total disappearance has long been mourned by scholars. He gave a plausible explanation as to how these documents had come into his possession. He said his uncle and he had discovered them in the cloister of Chilandar on Mt. Athos. He was confronted by some of the most learned scholars in Athens and satisfied them of the genuineness of his discovery. The king ended by buying the most interesting of them for $10,000.

In a year Simonides was back with a fresh lot, among them an ancient Homer, written on lotus leaves with an accompanying commentary by Eusthathius. The king's mouth watered at the sight. But he could spare money enough to buy only one-half the documents. The rest he recommended for purchase by the University of Athens. A commission of twelve scholars was appointed to examine the treasure trove. Eleven reported in favor of the genuineness, but the twelfth, Prof. Mavvaki, was skeptical and called for another examination. Then it was discovered that the Simonides' Homer reproduced all the misprints of Wolff's edition. He was called upon for an explanation, but it was found that he had already disappeared.

Years passed and the memory of Simonides was almost forgotten. Then a stranger turned up in Constantinople with several valuable manuscripts, a palimpsest history of the kings of Egypt in Greek, by Cranius, of Alexandria; an old Greek work on hieroglyphics and an Assyrian manuscript. Fifty thousand dollars was soon raised for the purchase of these antiquities.

The palimpsest manuscript was sent to Berlin, its authenticity was reaffirmed by the Academy and Prof. Lindorf offered the University of Oxford the honor of recovering this valuable book to the world. The work had actually been begun. The Egyptologist, Lipsius, who naturally wished to know how far Uranius supported it and demolished his own theories, asked to see the early sheets and speedily discovered with amazement that the book was little more than a translation in an indifferent Greek of portions of the writings of Bunsen and himself.

The press was stopped at once and the manuscript was submitted to microscopic experts and it was found that the layer of writing which had been nominally restored was more indistinct than the layer which had been effaced, and the pretended old ink overlaid the new.

Simonides (for it was he) was called upon for an explanation, but again he had disappeared. He now varied his scheme. At his next appearance in Constantinople he said he was the possessor of an English manuscript dated from the time when the French and Venetians ruled over Constantinople, which contained a record of the burial places of many valuable manuscripts. After being rebuffed in two or three places he applied to Ismail Pasha, the minister of public works. Ismail was in his harem when Simonides called, so that the latter busied himself with an exploration of the grounds.

When the pasha appeared Simonides informed him that this very garden was mentioned in his manuscript. The pasha's interest was excited. He consented to make an excavation. By Simonides' direction work was begun under a fig tree. In a few minutes a curious old box was dug up. Within it lay a poem in manuscript, ostensibly written by Aristotle.

The pasha, overjoyed, filled the cunning forger's hand with Turkish coins. But when the gardener heard of the discovery, he quietly remarked that the fig tree had been transplanted just about twenty years before and that all the adjacent ground had been thoroughly dug up at the time. "Let me die," said Simonides. In a few minutes he had unearthed a bronze box, which, upon being opened, disclosed the manuscript in question. But a dispute arose. The laborer swore that he had seen Simonides slip the box out of his sleeve into the hole. Here words were exchanged. At last the question of the authenticity of the manuscript was postponed until the next day. When the next day arrived, of course, Simonides had fled.

Two months later Simonides was in London. English scholars were greatly exercised over a remarkable manuscript in his possession giving a memoranda of Belisarius to the Emperor Justinian. Finally the Duke of Sutherland bought it for $3,200 and also paid $100 for a letter from Alcibiades to Pericles. Again Simonides disappeared before the fraud was discovered. The learned world hoped it had heard the last of him. But one day he was caught in an Iberian cloister in the act of making some additions to an ancient manuscript. At that time he had assumed the name of Barlcourt. He was promptly recognized, was banished from the country and a warning against him was published far and wide. From that time until the day of his death he emerged once or twice from obscurity with a forged manuscript, but he was promptly exposed.

A COURT OF CHILDREN

By Philip Weltner, Secretary Prison Association of Georgia

The legislature in 1908 enacted into law section 885-900 of the Penal Code, establishing a children's court.

Principles of law, in a juvenile court, become principles of character treatment and character building. The judge does not stop his inquiry with an answer to the problem, guilty or not guilty. Beside playing the part of an umpire, he is physician as well. He seeks underlying causes, the particular flaw, the strain in the stuff. The probation officer who prosecutes the case does not strive to prove the charge for the purpose of vindicating the law, but because he knows that the ascertainment of the truth is necessary to the welfare of the child, and that a repentant spirit is the requisite beginning of a better life. The law in a children's court is not a bolo with which to crush the offender, but a cure to heal his infirmities.

The children's court differs most radically from the criminal court in this respect: The criminal court hates both the sin and the sinner, the children's court stops with hatred for the sin. In the criminal court the offense is artificially dubbed as larceny, robbery, burglary, etc., and with conviction comes a penalty more or less fixed. Each crime has a set penalty. In other words the ordinary criminal court may be characterized as dispensing a dose as distinguished from a treatment.

In a children's court crime and sin are declared to be of the same stripe. Crime has relevancy only as giving the court a right to deal with the child, and as furnishing an insight into his character. Upon the analysis of character is based the ultimate direction given the case. The petition is not an indictment, either in letter or spirit, but a prayer that the child may be corrected and cared for according to law.

The children's court is a dream come true. Its philosophy rings true to the noblest instincts of the race. Justice in a children's court is not a blind goddess, but open-eyed and alive to the truth. Georgia needs to break a few windows into the dead wall of her criminal jurisprudence. We need probation, indeterminate sentence, a centralized, efficient prison system, a more practical parole law, and greater common sense in dealing with the sorry wreckage drifting before the courts. The blind cannot be trusted to lead the blind; so a criminal court which is not allowed to take into account the character of the offender, and ignoring him for what he is, stands but an unequal chance in raising men to higher standards of living.

FRIENDS.

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Friends are essentials. Just as air and food and clothing are essentials. For is not he who has no friend poor indeed, lacking and lonely and useless? Who ever heard of a useless man having Friends? Like attracts like. No one ever secured a Friend without first vibrating the Friend spirit within himself.

To get a Friend you must be a Friend.

The Friend art is Heart art—all else cheapens it. He to whom we talk and confide and trust is but another of us transplanted where courage and cheer and kindness is ever alive. We go to our Friend and he lifts us up and we feel him coming back to his own again—in ourselves.

A Friend is a mutual partner with whom we need no signed agreements.

It is said of Carlyle and Tennyson that they would sit for hours together without the passing of a word and then separate. And both inspired and uplifted because of the meeting. To reach the priceless treasure veins of a Friend it is necessary to go deep. In the presence of real Friends a sort of Divinity hovers over us.

Back of the knowledge that you have a Friend is the secret of your ability to press on and win at your plans.

The Spirit of Friend joy depends not in numbers. Have but one real Friend—and it is enough. The one that will not refuse to understand you, or protect you, at the time through the solid, and harsh hour of test will but gladly be the other half of the flesh with you.

He is your Friend who brings out of you the best of which you are capable.

You and only your Friend plan no Fandes. You are as you are. The sincerity of Service leads you on—makes each day as certain of Success as though it had already been completed and the case. The petition is not in doubt as to what you ought to be in the world, set yourself to the task of making of yourself a great Friend. Remembering that—

A lifetime is all too short in which to be a Friend and get Friends.

Italy's New Singer.

(From The Indianapolis News.)

A dozen years ago a celebrated maestro paid a visit to one of his friends who filled a modest position in Milan. They talked of music. They evoked memories of the great cantatrices. They recalled the success of La Pasta, who, by the charms of her voice, aroused Rome, London and Paris, who created the "Anne Bolyn" of Donizetti and the role of "Amine" in the Somnambula of Bellini. The conversation was suddenly interrupted by a child singing. It was the little daughter of the Italian who was putting her sister to sleep. The maestro was struck by the purity of this child voice. He divined another Pasta and charged himself with the vocal education of this future rival of the illustrious prima donna. Thus, it happened that Olga Aleardi came to be the idol of Italy. She will make her appearance at St. Petersburg and at Paris at the end of the season. It is said that Massenet and Wagner have never had a more charming interpreter.

CYCLORAMA CLOSED; BUILDING DANGEROUS

General Manager Carey Takes Action When Part of the Skylight Collapses.

A skylight in the cyclorama building at Grant park collapsed early Friday morning and several persons who were viewing the magnificent $100,000 painting of the "Battle of Atlanta," narrowly escaped serious injury.

Following the receipt of the report of the near accident at city hall Friday morning, Park Manager Dan Carey gave instructions to close the building until the city engineers make an inspection.

Announcement was made at the park office that the building would be closed for an indefinite period.

"I am not closing the building as a argument in favor of putting up a new structure," Manager Carey told The Constitution. "The building is in bad condition, and I realize that it will be much safer by keeping the public out."

Asks Mayor to Help.

Manager Carey sought a conference with Mayor Woodward Friday afternoon. He wants the mayor to take an interest and hasten repairs on the old building.

Council's finance committee was asked to appropriate $6,000 for a new fireproof building last January, but the item was left out of the sheet. President J. O. Cochran, of the park board, urged the appropriation again when the committee started making up the June sheet, and the prospects loomed up bright until the crematory controversy put an end to all new projects.

The cyclorama is one of the best assets of the park department. The painting is valued now at $75,000. During the last season 53,111 persons viewed the painting, yielding a revenue of $5,110. The building in which the painting is enclosed is flimsy, and is fast decaying. According to city officials who have inspected the building it will collapse in a short while in the event fire does not destroy it.

Some weeks ago another portion of the roof of the building fell, but it was at night when no one was about. General Manager Carey put his park carpenters to work on the damage and repaired it without closing the building one day. The skylight which fell Friday was of glass one and one-quarter inch thick.

City Must Safeguard Painting.

Councilman Albert Thomson recently discussed with members of council the necessity of the city doing something towards safeguarding the painting. He favors the city carrying heavy insurance on the painting.

Captain R. M. Clayton, city engineer, favors the city spending at least $50,000 on a concrete building, one which will not only safeguard against fire, but will stand the ravages of all kinds of weather.

It is likely that the park board will be called together at an early date to decide whether the building should be condemned and closed for the entire summer.

Many Congratulations Wired To Woman's Edition Workers

Returning from a visit to New York, Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Cartersville, Ga., wired to Mrs. H. M. Willet her congratulation on the great success of the Woman's Edition, and her regrets at not being able to be present on the day of publication. "It was a wonderful success," wrote Mrs. Felton, "and reflected great credit on the organized women of Georgia."

Miss Mildred Rutherford, of Athens, wrote to Mrs. John K. Ottley: "I want to be among the first to congratulate you and your co-workers on the Woman's Edition. It is fine! I am proud of the women of Georgia."

From Mrs. W. B. Hill, of Athens, came the message: "The Edition is surely a success, and to get it together was a tremendous undertaking. I am truly glad that you with the other valiant warriors may have a good breathing spell after the heat of the battle."

To Mrs. Lindsay Johnson, editor-in-chief of the Edition, Mrs. A. S. Supplee, of Eatonton, wrote: "Congratulations to you and your assistants. It eclipses all special editions I have ever read. I trust you will publish it in book form that it may be a lasting time preserved. I am a firm believer in woman's ability in every enterprise."

VAUDEVILLE ACTORS ARE MARRIED ON THE STAGE AT DUBLIN

Dublin, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—The wedding of Frank LaMonte and Miss Nellie Greenwood was solemnized Wednesday night on the stage of a local motion picture show here. Both of the contracting parties are members of the company playing under the name of "LaMonte's Merrymakers," and were filling an engagement in this city last week.

The wedding was performed on the stage, Judge U. C. Barrett officiating the ceremony, the ring service being used. The ceremony took place just after the close of the vaudeville act put on by the company in which the bride and groom held parts and the stage was filled with the company in various and sundry costumes, including the chorus girls in pink knickers and the male players in various stages of make-up and various odd apparel.

The bride wore a black dress with a white jabot at her collar and black ornament in her hair.

The ceremony was performed on the bride's 20th birthday.

SPECULATORS BOUGHT GRADUATION TICKETS COL. DALEY IS TOLD

That large blocks of tickets were bought by ticket speculators, to the graduation exercises of the Girls' High school at the Grand theater Thursday evening, and as a result many friends of young ladies graduating were unable to attend the exercises, is indirectly charged by Colonel W. R. Daley, chairman of the Atlanta board of education.

Colonel Daley said that a number of complaints had been registered, one gentleman saying that his wife was the twenty-first person in the line when the ticket-box opened, and yet could not get a ticket when her turn came.

"They told her, he said, that all the tickets were sold. If that was true, then the first twenty persons in the line must have bought all the tickets. Some even paid fifty cents for standing room, when seats were only 25 cents," said Colonel Daley.

Colonel Daley advocates the removal of the graduation exercises from the Grand theater to the auditorium, where no admission would be charged.

In regard to the report that speculators had bought the tickets to the graduation exercises of the Girls' High school, Manager Cardoza, representative in Atlanta of the Wells interests which controls the Grand, where the exercises were held, said to a Constitution reporter:

"I know nothing of speculation by operators in the Girls' High school tickets. We rented the house to the school for that occasion, and followed instructions in the disposition of tickets.

"When the house was rented, those in charge of the affair took all the box seats and a big block of tickets. Before the regular sale went on, all the girls who were graduating were allowed to make purchases for their families. When the regular seat sale began there was a line of people by 7 o'clock in the morning. The box office at the Forsyth opened at 9 o'clock and the sale continued strong until 10 o'clock, when the line broke. From that time on there was a sale until the night of the exercises, when the sale went on at the Grand. At that time the pit was gone, the balcony was sold out and all the reserved seats in the gallery disposed of, thus leaving standing room and unreserved seats in the gallery. That is all we know about the sale."

OPPOSE FRIEDMANN CURE

Fulton County Medical Society Would Prevent Use of Serum.

The Fulton County Medical society has recommended to the city board of health that the board of health forbid that they take measures to prevent the injection into the tissues of human beings of Dr. B. Friedmann's "turtle vaccine," or any other living tubercle vaccine, until the commission appointed by the United States government has reported favorably upon the safety of such injections, or until the boards have become satisfied that these injections will not work harm.

The recommendation was made in the form of a set of resolutions passed by the society and presented to the press and to the secretaries of the two boards.

The Fulton physicians call attention to the fact that the reports of the Friedmann treatment have been more or less unfavorable, showing the results to be partially negative, and in some cases showing a strong probability of harm having been done.

The society also states that there is always an element of danger in the injection of living germs into the tissues, and states that the board of health of New York city has, after careful investigation, closed up the Friedmann institution established in that city, and warns Atlantans that the Friedmann company has already sent agents into this state for the purpose of establishing a local institute for the purpose of giving the treatment.

LANFORD CLAPS LID ON DETECTIVE NEWS

All Information in Future Must Come Through Office of the Chief.

Chief Newport Lanford yesterday morning issued a special order prohibiting the disclosing of information to newspaper reporters.

It was stated in The Constitution in its story Friday morning the investigation in the Phagan case had been seriously hampered by the publication of developments, many of which were made public in premature form. Solicitor Dorsey wrote Chief Lanford requesting him to clap on the lid.

Chief Lanford, in a talk with reporters, said that the publication of developments was not caused through his office, but was due to the energy and enterprise of Atlanta reporters, who, independent of detectives, managed to secure their information.

The special order is No. 6 and prohibits an attache of the detective department from giving news to reporters. The only source from which information can hereafter be gained is through the chief's office. Chief Lanford also established an unprecedented custom Friday, when he announced that newspaper reporters could see him only at scheduled hours. This rule went into effect immediately.

BEAVERS WILL SPEAK TO THE POLICE CHIEFS

Chief James L. Beavers leaves today at noon for Washington, where he goes to attend the annual convention of national police chiefs. He will be away for a week or more. The grand jury instructed him that he will be needed no more in their present probe, and that he can make the trip without hindrance.

Major Sylvester, head of the Washington police, and president of the National Association of Police Chiefs, has requested the Atlanta chief to address the convention on the subject of "Segregation." He has prepared a paper on the folly of semi-legalized vice, and on his conception of the most successful method of abolishing recognized prostitution. He deals extensively with the interesting history of his famous crusade, waged on Atlanta's tenderloin some several months ago.

MRS. POWELL IS GIVEN FOUR MONTHS IN JAIL

Mrs. N. Powell, of 95 Spring street, was sentenced to serve four months in jail by Judge A. Calhoun Friday morning following her conviction of a charge of keeping a disorderly house. Mrs. Powell is one of the seven women who have received straight jail sentences on the charge.

Attorneys Jackson and Gober, representing Mrs. Powell, declare that they will take an appeal to the higher court. They secured a writ of injunction against Chief Beavers and police to prevent them molesting her. It will be recalled that a number of women were arrested from the house. The injunction has never been heard.

Chief Beavers was one of the witnesses against the woman. He charges that the injuction has prevented him from making further arrests at the house.

DUTY MAY BE REMOVED ON CAMEL'S HAIR CLOTH

President E. W. Ashcraft, of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' association, which meets the latter part of this month in Chicago, passed through Atlanta Sunday en route to his home from Washington, D. C., and gave the good news to the members of the Georgia Seed Crushers' association of Georgia that there was every indication that the duty on camel's hair cloth would be entirely removed in the passage of the pending Underwood tariff bill.

The removal of this duty means much to the cotton seed oil business throughout the country, for under the present bill there is a duty of over 100 per cent upon it, which works a great handship on the oil mill men, who use so much of it during the crushing season each year.

On account of the presence in Washington city President Ashcraft was unable to attend the meeting of the Georgia association, which held its ninth annual convention at Atlantic Beach, Fla., this week.

The members of the Interstate association living in Georgia are repairing to attend the Chicago meeting, at which President Ashcraft will preside, in large numbers and will probably leave Atlanta on Saturday, June 21, on a special train.

The expression of thanks was made in a resolution passed unanimously by a vote of the camp and signed by Commander C. Wheeler Mangum and Adjutant J. H. Shellnutt.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night. (Advertisement.)

INTERURBAN RAILWAYS WILL BE ENCOURAGED

Chamber of Commerce Appoints Committee to Assist All Promoters.

Atlanta proposes to enter actively into a campaign for interurban railway development.

There has been talk of numerous projects for building electric lines between this city and various distant points, but not one of them has as yet developed beyond the stage of discussion. One company did grade a few miles of roadway on a line proposed to be operated between Atlanta and the South Carolina line at the Savannah river, but it met with financial disaster and the work of construction was suspended.

Appreciating the value of interurban railways, the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee on interurban railway development, whose purpose and object will be to encourage in every way possible the construction of interurban lines. It will render any assistance possible to the promoters of such projects, securing information for them and assisting them wherever they can in the promotion of their enterprises.

The committee was appointed by President Wilmer L. Moore, of the chamber of commerce, is composed of Hollins N. Randolph, chairman; Mell R. Wilkinson, Frederic J. Paxton, P. S. Arkwright and Fred Lewis.

Among the projects which have been under discussion and upon which more or less work has been done, are the proposed line between Atlanta and Macon, with a possible extension to Albany and other south Georgia points; the line to Augusta, or some point on the Savannah river to connect with the Duke lines which traverse South Carolina and North Carolina; a line through the northeastern section of the state, where there is now no railroad service; and lines toward Chattanooga on the one hand, and West Point on the other. Work has been done upon some of these projects, while other are still in the formative stage. It is the purpose of the chamber of commerce to lend encouragement for all of them, and to secure for Atlanta as early as possible the construction of lines of interurban railway connecting with important points in all directions.

WM. R. RANKIN DIES AT HOME IN CALHOUN

Calhoun, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—Colonel W. R. Rankin died at his residence here early Thursday morning after a three-weeks' illness. He was one of the pioneer citizens of the town, a leading lawyer and an efficient public official.

He was a member of the local U. C. V. camp, and was always ready to help his old comrades in arms, by whom he was held in great esteem.

He served several terms in the legislature, both as representative and senator, and was a member of the board to create a railroad commission for Georgia.

He was elected ordinary of the county in 1908, and re-elected in 1912, which position he held at the time of his death.

Colonel Rankin was married in 1867 to Miss Meggie Ramsey, of Oconee county, South Carolina. He is survived by his wife and six children: W. R. Rankin, Jr., Miss Allie Rankin, Mrs. Fred McDaniel, of Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Harry Starr, of Watson, Okla., G. R. Rankin, of Roseoma, Okla., and Mrs. King Norton.

The funeral services were conducted Friday morning by Dr. W. H. Darnell, pastor of the Presbyterian church, to which the deceased has been an elder for many years. Interment at Chandler cemetery.

WILLING FOR HIS WIFE TO JOIN HER AFFINITY

Jacob Bellick, of 312 Central avenue, has asked the superior court to grant him a divorce from his wife, in order that she might join Miss Allie Affinity without violating her religious scruples. Bellick alleges that his wife Jennie Bellick, has often requested him to divorce her. He names one Max Bender, of Los Angeles, as his wife's "soul mate," and declares that the worry his wife forced on him caused him to neglect his business to such an extent that he was driven to the bankrupt court.

CORPORATION MUST PAY TAX BY END OF MONTH

Henry S Jackson, collector of internal revenue for Georgia, is notifying all corporations located in the state which have not paid the corporation tax, that the time limit expire June 30, and after that date every delinquent corporation will be subjected to the penalty provided—a charge of 5 per cent on the corporation's income.

"There yet remains at least $250,000 of unpaid corporation taxes for the year," says Collector Jackson, "and the time to escape the penalty is growing shorter each day. It would be well for all delinquents to get busy at once and save themselves money and trouble."

SEVENTY BADLY HURT IN GERMAN LABOR STRIKE

Stettin, Germany, June 6.—A battle "monopoly." He prepared a list which seventy persons were severely wounded, was fought last night in the suburb of Frauendorf as the sequel to the killing of a striker by a nonstriker.

Workers in a chicory factory went on strike some time ago. Last evening one of them molested a man who had continued at work, and in the fight which ensued the striker was stabbed and killed. The strikers' comrades later gathered in front of the factory and demanded that the nonstriker be delivered to them. The request was refused and they threatened to demolish the factory.

Representative Tribble Attends Daughter's Wedding — Georgia Postmasters Confirmed.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(Special.)—Representative Samuel J. Tribble left today to attend the wedding of his daughter, Miss Ruth Tribble, in Athens, on July 19. Asked about nominees for postmasters, he said that all of the pressing fights in the eighth district have been settled.

The selection of Mr. McKenzie at Comer, was the last. A bitter fight was made on Mr. McKenzie, who is a school teacher and was formerly ordinary of Franklin county. The present postmaster is a republican and has served for sixteen years.

Mr. Tribble said the appointment of agents to secure ginners statistics presented a problem only second in the selection of postmasters, but that these had finally been chosen.

These Georgia postmasters were confirmed today by the senate: Chipley, R. H. Dunlap; Glennville, Carrie B. Padgett; Royston, Robert L. Stephenson; Senoia, Ralph E. McKnight; Tennille, L. J. Pritchard; Unadilla, W. H. Beddingfield.

500 RIFLES SEIZED EN ROUTE TO ULSTER

Dublin, Ireland, June 6.—A sensation was caused by the seizure today by the customs authorities of a consignment of 500 rifles and bayonets on board a steamer from Liverpool. The arms were addressed to Baron Farnham, an Irish peer, at his country seat, Farnham, County Cavan.

Baron Farnham, 53 years old and the eleventh baron of the line, was formerly an officer in the regular army. He is one of the leading unionists of the province of Ulster, and has taken a paramount part in the campaign against home rule.

The cases of rifles and bayonets came from a London firm, and it is reported that the authorities have discovered an elaborate organization in London for supplying the unionist centers in Ulster with arms.

MAY PLACE DUTY ON PRINT PAPER

Finance Subcommittee of Senate Seems Inclined to Take Retaliatory Step Against Canada.

Washington, June 6.—For several hours today the senate finance subcommittee, of which Senator Johnson, of Maine, is chairman, discussed the paper schedule of the Underwood bill, and it is reported tonight that an amendment to put a retaliatory duty against Canada on print paper valued at not more than 2 1-2 cents a pounds, is being seriously considered.

Because the majority of the subcommittee was inclined to this view, they summoned from New York John Norris, chairman of the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, who today reiterated opposition to the imposition of any countervailing duty.

No decision was reached, but it was learned that the matter hangs in the balance with the leaning toward putting on the countervailing duty. In the Underwood bill retaliatory duties are imposed on papers valued at more than 2 1-2 cents a pound. The import tax is fixed at 15 per cent ad valorem, and the countervailing duty is directed against Canada, because of restrictions on pulp woods and pulp. The removal of the American paper manufacturers is that the added tax be extended to print paper.

Print Paper on Free List.

Print paper in the Underwood bill is on the free list, and the amendment being considered would provide that if any country, dependency, province or other sub-division of government shall impose any export duty, export license fee, or other charge of any kind whatsoever, whether in the form of additional charge of license fee or otherwise, upon printing paper, wood pulp or wood for use in the manufacture of wood pulp, there shall be imposed upon printing paper, wood pulp or wood for use in the manufacture of wood pulp, when imported either directly or indirectly from such country, dependency, province or other sub-division of government, a duty equal to the amount of such export duty or other export charge imposed by such country, etc., upon printing paper, wood pulp or wood for use in the manufacture of wood pulp.

Manufacturers argue that a retaliatory duty against Canada would force that country to yield on some of its restrictions against American manufacturers of wood and pulp exports.

In his argument he put the subcommittee today, Mr. Norris called attention to a proposal of American paper manufacturers to establish a system of operating their mills only five days a week instead of six. This, he argued, was another effort to curtail the American output of print paper.

"The consumption of paper has been growing steadily," Mr. Norris said in his brief, "at the rate of 300 tons per day, but in the year 1911 not a single paper machine was built in the United States.

Restrictin Their Output.

"In the month of March, 1911, at the time they were appealing to your committee for relief, their reports to the bureau of corporations showed that they were restricting their output below normal capacity to the extent of 156,000 tons per annum, or 12 per cent. They were aggravating that restriction by the exportation of 49,755 tons of news print paper in the fiscal year of 1912. Any unusual condition arising during the year, such as a strike, a fire, drouth or blizzard, or shortage of cars or congestion of traffic, would have precipitated a situation similar to that in the fall of 1907, and in the spring of 1908, when a paper panic cost publishers approximately $10,000,000.

"The paper makers inaugurated a campaign to limit investment in new mills, and when they failed to stop construction in any other way, they attacked the credit of the projectors of new mills and cried banks to refuse loans to the new enterprises."

Mr. Norris contended that every measure the United States had directed against the Canadian provinces had reacted against the American paper maker and consumer, that instead of composing the situation, they provoked an ugly complication, which will require years of intelligent and skillful handling to adjust.

"Nothing can be done," he argued, "by compulsion or tariff threats to provide wood for the American paper industry. That day has passed. Canada controls the pulp wood supply."

Senator Hitchcock proposed amendment to the tariff bill which would put an increased graduated tax on tobacco and its manufactures, it was reported today, may not be acted by the finance committee. The feeling expressed is that such legislation should not be made a part of the tariff bill, and that it should be given proper ed consideration. It also was said among the senators that the bill had not yet the approval of the administration.

LEAGUE TO START FIGHT ON LOCKER CLUBS IN MACON

Macon, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—Macon now has another law and order league, and some definite developments relative to the fight against the locker clubs is expected within the next few days. Last night 100 men packed to the ministers of the various local churches met at the Mulberry street Methodist church and organized themselves into a league, the object of which will be to bring about a better enforcement of the laws especially regarding the sale of intoxicating liquors.

A subcommittee of twelve has been named to take up the matter of closing up the locker clubs under the "Home plan" as outlined last Sunday by Hon. Seaborn Wright in an address at the city auditorium.

This committee will probably engage a lawyer within the next few days and application for an injunction will be made against one of the most prominent clubs as a starter. If this proves successful an effort will be made to close up every locker club in the city.

As the club operators do not intend to submit meekly to any such treatment as that the residents say that there is going to be a lively fight on hand, and the clubs will not be without their supporters.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO DINE LAWMAKERS

Committee to Arrange for Entertainment of Solons During First Week of Session.

Directors of the Atlanta chamber of commerce at their meeting yesterday decided to give a banquet to members of the general assembly when they meet here the last of this month. The date for the dinner has not been decided yet, but it will probably be during the first week of the session. A committee of arrangements will be appointed by President Wilmer Moore which will go to work at once with the plans for the solons' entertainment.

The purpose of the dinner is to get the business men of Atlanta and the members of the legislature acquainted with each other, so that the lawmakers may see that Atlanta's leading citizens are taking an earnest interest in promoting the welfare of the state at large, and that they may get a just understanding of the merits of certain measures of legislation which the chamber of commerce is backing this year.

Another dinner, which will be given soon under the direction of the chamber of commerce, is one to the manufacturers of the city on the evening of June 24. At this time, Brooks Morgan, chairman of the committee on a permanent exhibit of Atlanta-made goods, will tell just what has been done in the way of securing such an exhibit. The matter will then be put squarely up to the manufacturers and they will decide whether they want it or not.

The recommendation of the committee on the Western and Atlantic railroad, that a mass meeting be called at an early date in Taft hall to consider the proposed re-location of the road, was given the approval of the directors. The "blue sky" bill, prepared by Hugh M. Dorsey, chairman of the committee on that subject, was also given endorsement. It will be introduced in the legislature at this coming session.

BANKERS' MEETING WILL HELP ATLANTA DECLARES HARPER

Hilliston Harper, of Chattanooga, Tenn., who organized the first convention of bankers held in Atlanta, is stopping at the Piedmont for several days. Mr. Harper expressed pleasure at the progress the present convention bureau is making.

He is especially interested in the movement which the convention bureau and The Constitution have been agitating to bring the American Bankers association here in 1914.

"The bankers and the American bankers," said Mr. Harper, "are considered by the convention bureaus of the country as the two best conventions that meet. They are the best spenders, and leave more money in a city than any two conventions.

"The advantages have already been secured, and if Atlanta also gets the bankers it will mean the spending of several hundred thousand dollars here. It will also mean the gaining of new citizens and probably the investment of many thousands of dollars in property and business enterprises.

"Not only would Atlanta gain, but so would this entire section of the south. We had scores of persons attending the great Presbyterian conventions to stop over in Chattanooga last week, of the 100,000 visitors attending the confederate reunion, over 5,000 deposited their tickets in order to take side trips, and many of them visited Atlanta."

West Point Teachers.

West Point, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—At the last regular meeting of the West Point board of education on Monday afternoon the new teachers were elected for the school. Miss Davis Bryan, of Indian Springs, and Miss Lucy Nunnally, of Monroe. They were elected to positions in the grammar school department of the schill. One is for the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Clyde Griffin, the other for one of the lower grades. It was decided to discontinue the department of music for the next year.

POSTOFFICE SERVICE GREATLY IMPROVED

Hour of Delivery of Morning Mail Advanced in Congested Residential Sections.

Postmaster Hugh L. McKee was yesterday advised by First Assistant Postmaster General D. C. Roper that the Washington department had indorsed fully the plan submitted by the Atlanta postmaster "to extend the city deliveries and improve the service by advancing the hour of deliveries of the morning mails in the congested residential sections of Atlanta," and directed the execution of the plan with which the local office has been experimenting most successfully for some time past.

A few months ago Postmaster McKee submitted the department plans worked out by himself and his force by which the deliveries were materially advanced in time, increased in number and sent into new territory sections of the city never before served by carriers.

Postmaster McKee was given full and complete authority in every way by the Washington department. One of the first changes is the addition of nineteen new carriers because of the eight-hour law. Carriers instead of drawing the fixed monthly salary were compensated by the hour, the rate being 30 cents the hour, making a carrier's pay $2.40 a day. But with the end of the current month the pay-by-the-hour plan will be generally abolished and an annual salary system substituted. The same order by First Assistant Postmaster General Roper abolishes the old $600 grade and substitutes for the entrance salary $800 a year, or $66.66 a month.

By adding nineteen carriers to the Atlanta force, Superintendent of Delivery Hart is enabled to provide two daily deliveries in Capitol View, Oakhurst, all sections of Druid Hills and Ansley park, while in the congested residential sections he will make three deliveries a day, one of which makes it possible for a resident to get out-of-town papers sent them by mail. The increase in carriers gives the Atlanta postoffice a total of 133 regular city carriers, nineteen substitute carriers and seven rural delivery routes, covering 174 miles every day.

The growth of the parcel post feature and other increased mail service has made it necessary to take on 27 additional clerks in the postoffice within the past three or four months. To assemble the mails from the streets and to aid in distribution to various points when carriers are gathered of all kinds of incoming parcels included, the Atlanta office is now utilizing one automobile and two wagons, but the service is not sufficient and Postmaster McKee has recommended to headquarters the necessity of three machines and the indications are that the recommendation will be authorized before the end of the month.

The department has authorized an additional substation on Whitehall street, and Postmaster McKee has perfected arrangements for its location in Rich's department store, the new station to open July 1. Two sets of windows will carry every facility offered by the main office. Money orders will be issued at the new station and stamps can be purchased there as at the main office. Letters and packages can be registered at the new station, while parcels can be checked. Thirty-three messenger boys were made necessary for the delivery of parcels and when the C. O. D. feature is inaugurated still more messenger boys will be required.

BANK SHORT $200,000; CASHIER IS MISSING

St. Louis, June 6.—A special to The Post-Dispatch says the Pemiscot County bank at Caruthersville, Mo., has closed its doors and is in the hands of the state bank commissioner, as the result of the discovery of a shortage. The shortage, according to John H. Cunningham, is at least $200,000 and may reach $250,000.

The greater amount of the alleged shortage is in county funds, and to the good the bank has turned over to the bank commissioner $12,000 worth of property belonging to A. G. Tisdle, the cashier, who left here last Saturday. He is expected to return in a day or two.

The discovery of the shortage resulted from an audit of the bank's books. A trust company has been organized to liquidate the affairs of the bank and to pay off depositors.

A mercantile establishment in which the cashier was interested closed today and is now in the hands of an assignee.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES OF THE PILGRIM'S CLASS

Next Sunday evening the regular preaching service at the Central Congregational church will be dispensed with, and in its stead will be held the first anniversary exercises of the Pilgrim class, the young men's division of the Sunday school, which has made remarkable growth during the year under the inspiring leadership of Mrs. George L. Hanson.

The young men will have sole charge, and an interesting program has been arranged. G. M. Normandy will speak on "The History of Pilgrim Class;" G. S. Peck on "The Work of Pilgrim Class," and P. T. Samuel on "The Future of Pilgrim Class." Musical numbers will be rendered by quartet, duet and the Pilgrim chorus.

Monday evening, in further celebration of the anniversary, the Pilgrims will have an informal reception and supper at the home of Mrs. Fuller, 521 Capitol avenue, to which they have invited the Averill class, the young ladies' section of the Sunday school.

Hartwell Negro Acquitted.

Hartwell, Ga., June 6.—(Special.)—Howard Corry, the negro man who shot and killed John Rucker, another negro, last Sunday morning, was arraigned for a preliminary hearing Tuesday morning. Corry was represented by Hon. J. H. Skelton, and after the evidence and defense he was allowed to go, as it was decided that he shot in his own defense. The negroes lived in the Nuberg settlement of Hart county.

Commerce Court.

Washington, June 6.—The fight for a continuance of the commerce court, threatened with extinction on July 1, was renewed today by Representative Broussard, of Louisiana, who introduced a bill to not only continue the court, but to extend its powers.

After eight starts, the Lookouts managed to win a game from the Crackers yesterday afternoon, their first of the season, but it took them ten innings to get away with the game at that.

Lookouts Manage to Win at Last

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

Whiffs

As It Is.

THE STANDING of the Southern league clubs, as it appears in The Constitution every morning, contains at present that touchy disputed game at Nashville. We have placed this in Atlanta's won column and in Nashville's loss. This game will be kept there until President Kavanaugh decides to throw it out and order it played over, which no doubt he will.

Still Leading.

TOMMY LONG continues to lead the batters of the Southern league, despite his slump of the past few days. Including Thursday's game, Tommy is hitting at a .370 clip. Robertson, of Mobile, who led Long for quite a while, is batting .363. But while every one is watching these two men, they had better keep their eyes on three other players who are coming fast. Manager Elberfeld, of Chattanooga, is hitting .352; Messenger, of Birmingham, is hitting .340, and Sloan of Montgomery, is hitting .332.

Have Come Around.

IT BEGINS to look as if Billy Smith's twirlers have come around at last and are showing the kind of form that goes to make pennant winners. Musser and Dent are pitching great ball. Old Reliable King Brady is going as steadily as a clock. This puts it up to Price and Chappelle. This week will tell.

Who Will Go?

CONZELMAN will be signed up today. Who will go to make room for him has not been decided upon by Manager Smith. But the choice seems to rest between Chappelle and Price. Musser, Dent and Brady looking like certainties at this writing. But we leave the matter to Manager Smith, without even a guess.

Thanks, Ruddy.

NEW ORLEANS scribes may think harshly of Frank Rudderham as an umpire, but we beg to disagree with them. Ruddy has always umpired well when in Atlanta, and not having the pleasure of witnessing him in action elsewhere, this is all we can go by. Even had his decisions been bad on Thursday, which they were not, we express our thanks herewith for his endeavor to hasten the pastime, by keeping right back of the players at all stages. A little more life on the part of the other umpires in the league and some of the games would not be so tiresome.

Dope Sticks.

THE DOPE promises to run true to form in one respect. The Pirates and the Giants are coming along fast now, and it begins to look like a fight to the finish between these two clubs. This was the prediction during the stove league, and it is one prediction that will probably pan out. The Phillies' twirlers were off to a running start, but Doolin's men cannot win as steadily and consistently as either the Giants or the Pirates, when the latter get stretched out in their true stride.

The Cellar Berth.

THE COMPETITION for the cellar berth in the Lynch organization is going to be a keen one. There seems to be three clubs who are about evenly matched and the Reds, Doves and Cardinals do not propose to languish in the cellar without a fight. The struggle in the second division is going to be as interesting to the inhabitants of the cities named as the pennant scrap will be in other circles.

Lock the Gates.

THE TRAMPING of the White Elephants of Connie Mack is getting louder every day. It looks like they will be unable to stop the boom of Mack. Take into the consideration that Baker is hitting some 50 points below his natural stride, and Jack Coombs has been hors de combat for some time, and then figure what will happen when they hit their real stride. Oh horrors—for the other fellow. And even at that, the Mackmen have won twelve straight games.

Figure Strong.

THE NAPS of Joe Birmingham must not be figured out of the running just yet. They are sweeping the Athletics clowishly and winning games right and left. Birmy's hustlers are making as good a bid for the pennant as the most rabid Cleveland fan could hope for, and the first slip of the Athletics is likely to find the Naps out in front, and when they get there, the heavy artillery, coupled with the pitching that they possess, is likely to keep them there, unless they run into some more accidents.

Lookouts Win First Game In Eight From Crackers; Took Ten Rounds to Do It

Crackers Sprung Fierce Rally in Enghth, Scoring Five Runs and Tying Up Game—Welchonce, Alpermann, Elberfeld and Coyle Feature With Hitting. Agler Has a Busy Day.

By Dick Jemison.

The Lookouts finally won a ball game from the Crackers. Friday they scored their first win of the season from Billy Smith's clan after having been drubbed seven consecutive times.

But it took them ten innings to do it, and at that they came very near losing the contest, after they had had it packed away. The final count was 7 to 5.

Despite the fact that the Crackers lost, they gave the fans a run for their money, and gave them more excitement in one round—the eighth—than Atlanta fans have been treated to in many a day. Pandemonium reigned.

Both teams used two pitchers. Chappelle started for the Crackers, and was both wild and touched up rather lively, while Dent, who succeeded him, was hit just hard enough to lose.

Sommers started for the Lookouts, and for seven innings he had the Crackers eating out of his hand, but in the eighth the fireworks started. Curtains for Rudy. Coveleskie finished the game and checked the Crackers nicely.

Free Hitting.

The free hitting of both sides marked the contest. The Crackers got less hits, but their total bases were greater than the Lookouts.

It was the long hitting that came mighty near bringing about the downfall of the Lookouts, after they had a lead that was commanding and looked safe. But they reckoned without their host, for a three-ply and a four-ply smash tied up the old pastime, amid the wildest yelling that has been turned loose on the local lot in many a day.

Whitey Alpermann and Harry Welchonce were the boys with the thudding feet for the Crackers, the former getting a double and a circuit smash, and the latter two singles and a triple, and the pows were of the timeliest variety, too.

Elberfeld and Coyle did the hitting for the visitors. The Chattanooga mogul slammed out three safe wallops and played a grand game at the short field. If the Kid has gone back any, as some say, his work Friday gave no indication of it.

Joe Agler had a busy day at the initial cushion, accepting twenty putouts without a hobble, while Curtis Elston, in right field, handled five chances in excellent style, robbing Bisland twice of what looked like sure extra base hits.

How They Scored.

For two rounds there was nothing doing on either side. In the third, King worked Chappelle for a free ticket, and was sacrificed down by Stack. Coyle kicked in with a single to right, and King dented the plate with his spikes for the first run.

Elberfeld smashed one through Agler for a single, sending Coyle to third. He swiped second, and both scored when Johnson shot one through both Smith and Bisland, one of those teasing grass-cutters that no one can handle.

Coyle's single, an error by Bisland when Coyle started to steal, and Elston's single sent Coyle home.

A base on balls to King, his stolen base and two infield outs scored their fifth run in the seventh.

Atlanta fans had settled back in their seats content with a defeat, but the Crackers were fighting mad, after Elston had purposely thrown Joe Agler out at first in the eighth, and rounded first base on a bad throw of Smith's.

Pandemonium Reigns.

Never has baseball run wild gone as wild in Atlanta as the one at Ponce de Leon Friday, when the big eighth inning was pulled off.

Agler beat out a hit to Elberfeld and Joe Dunn showed his good eye by picking out four balls on as many strolling. George Rohe was sent in to bat for Chappelle. The veteran laced a fierce one to right, but Elston was under it. Agler took third on the play.

Long worked the weakening Sommers for a free ticket, and the bases were chocked to the gunwhales. Harry Welchonce looked over one, took a couple of strikes and then laced the next one between left and center for three cushions, sending home the three bag occupants.

The crowd went wild and urged Whitey Alpermann, the champion pinch hitter to "hit 'er out." Whitey did. Pulling off one, he picked out the next one, which was an outshoot breaking into him, and pickled it between right field and center, the pellet winding up at the scoreboard. Whitey put on full speed and beat the relays to the plate.

The excitement that prevailed can hardly be described. This inning was worth the price of admission alone, and even if the Crackers did lose later, the fans felt repaid for their wonderful rally.

How Lookouts Won.

The Lookouts packed it away in the tenth session. Elberfeld got his third hit, a smash to center. Elston sacrificed him down neatly. Johnson singled to right, but poor coaching kept the Chattanooga manager on third.

Then Gabby Street hit a slow teaser down the third base line that Wallop could only field in time to get Street at first. Williams got a free ticket and then Coveleskie made his own game safe by poling one to right for a single, sending Johnson across the plate.

Manager Elberfeld will probably shoot Coveleskie back at the Crackers this afternoon in an effort to make it two out of three. Street will again catch.

Gilbert Price will draw the assignment of outpitching the Pole, and Gilbert can do it, too, when he gets right. Dunn will again handle his slants.

Billies 2, Gulls 1.

Mobile, Ala., June 6.—E. Brown and Campbell fought a brilliant fourteen-inning pitching battle this afternoon, the Montgomerylans winning in the fourteenth, score 2 to 1. Campbell pitched better ball than his opponent, but errors gave Montgomery both their runs. They scored first in the fourth, when an error by Stock gave Elwert first, and two outs down, Sloan followed with a single, and when it went through Robertson, Elwert scored. Mobile tied it when, after Starr hit over the fence in the fourth for a home run. In the fourteenth Montgomery won on Ware's Texas leaguer, a sacrifice, infield out and Campbell's wild pitch. Umpire Scott Chestnut, who succeeds Umpire Kerin, made his debut and made a favorable impression.

New Salary Ruling.

Cincinnati, June 6.—The national baseball commission has promulgated a new rule today which clearly defines the salary obligations of a club to a player whose services are released by the club after the commencement of its contract period.

The new rule reads:

"A club which after the beginning of the terms of its contract with him releases the services of a player to a club, whose championship season had not commenced on that day, the date of his canceled contract up to the date his salary starts with his new club, provided he promptly reports to and gives service to the club to which he is transferred."

Cobb's Hitting.

Ty Cobb dropped 24 points Friday by failing to get a hit in five times up.

CURRENT IN EFFECT ON DAY OF TRAGEDY

Report That Elevator in Pencil Factory Was Not Running Proves Groundless.

Following a widely-prevalent rumor that Leo Frank's defense will strive to prove that the current was shut off from the pencil factory plant on the day Mary Phagen was slain, and that, for this reason, James Conley could not have lowered the girl's body to the basement on the electrically-driven elevator as he claims in his confession, it was established conclusively last night that the Georgia Railway and Power company's electric service was in effect on the tragedy day.

This statement was made to a Constitution reporter by S. Arthur Redding, general superintendent of the department of electricity of the local power concern. Mr. Redding investigated his reports of the murder date to ascertain whether or not the power was running into the pencil factory building on April 26, revealing that the service was effective.

A rumor was circulated Friday that an affidavit had been secured by the defense to the effect that the current was shut off from the entire building on the day of the murder. Luther Z. Rosser, Frank's attorney, declared to a reporter for The Constitution that he knew nothing of such a document's existence. He would not deny, however, that an affidavit of that nature had been obtained. He only said that word of its existence was "news to him."

Shut Off From Inside.

Superintendent Redding said it was probable that the current was shut off from the inside of the plant, as is usual in all factories employing electric power. In this case, however, he declared that to turn on the power required only the plugging of an individual switch, which would have been a fixture of the plant's, not the power company's.

Negro Sticks to Story.

Conley, when informed of the rumored affidavit, stronly maintained the detectives who questioned him say, that he did operate the elevator to carry down the girl's body, and that Frank drove it on the return trip. Furthermore, he is said to have declared the power company was not accustomed to shutting down the current on holidays.

Another startling rumor gained headway Friday in which A. S. Colyar, the sensational figure in the dictagraph charges, was said to have announced his possession of a sworn confession from the negro Conley, and that he had told Sheriff Mangum of it.

The rumor had it that Conley had admitted to Colyar that he murdered the girl.

Chief Lanford branded the story as a total falsehood. He had heard it on Thursday night, he said, and immediately had ordered Conley brought to his office for examination. The negro, says the chief, told him emphatically that he had never intimated anything relative to having slain the girl, and that he made no sworn statements other than those in hands of the detectives.

Furthermore, the chief declares, Conley avowed he had never seen or heard of Colyar except through what he had read of him in the newspapers. Also, in a telephone conversation with Colyar, Lanford declares Colyar denied having made the reported statement, and said that he had never even seen the negro sweeper, much less talked with him.

Has Negro Cook Disappeared!

The report prevailed at police headquarters Friday that Minola McKnight, the servant girl in the Frank household, had mysteriously disappeared, and that no trace of her could be found. Investigation at the Frank home, 68 East Georgia avenue, revealed, it is said, that she was there no longer. Neither is she reported to be at her home on Pulliam street.

Her attorney, George Gordon, refuses to talk of his client or of her whereabouts. Neither will he speak of his connection with the case. He has admitted, heretofore, however, that he is counsel for the woman who recently made such a startling affidavit which she denied almost twenty-four hours after it had been in the hands of the solicitor general.

PAGE GIVEN WELCOME BY PILGRIMS SOCIETY

London, June 6.—Walter Hines Page, the new American ambassador to the court of St. James, tonight received his baptism of fire as an after-dinner speaker in London at a welcoming banquet given in his honor by the Pilgrims society. Field Marshal Earl Roberts presided, and had as supporters at the head of the table Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary; the Earl of Halsbury, former lord chancellor; the Earl of Aberdeen, lord lieutenant of Ireland, and Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland.

Three hundred and fifty pilgrims, among them many prominent Britishers and representative Americans, attended. Mr. Page was welcomed in speeches by Earl Roberts and Sir Edward Grey, the latter being given a great ovation when he was referred to by other speakers as "the peacemaker of Europe."

Whitney Meets Aldredge For Southern Golf Title At Montgomery Today

Montgomery, Ala., June 6.—Nelson Whitney, of New Orleans, twice holder of the southern championship today defeated Reuben Bush also of New Orleans, in the semi-finals of the championship flight of the Southern Golf association's twelfth annual tournament here. Tomorrow Whitney will contest with George A. Aldredge, state champion of Texas, for the championship.

Whitney and Bush have played against each other in four previous tournaments, Whitney always winning easily. Both men played superior golf in both morning and afternoon rounds, the match being for 36 holes. Whitney won, 7-6. In the afternoon Bush made the bogey 39 for the first nine holes, while Whitney played par golf, 36.

In the first fight for the consolation championship today, Munger, of Dallas, Texas, had no difficulty in defeating Selden, Macon, Ga., 8-7, and Ulmer, of Jacksonville, won a hard fought battle with I. W. Read, Augusta, 1 up, in 38 holes.

Besides the Whitney-Aldredge championship match tomorrow morning Munger and Ulmer will fight the finals for the consolation championship.

American Tennis Stars Win From Australasians In Single Matches Friday

New York, June 6.—American lawn tennis players paved the way for a trip to England by defeating the Australasian team two straight matches in the Davis cup preliminaries at the West Side Tennis club courts today. Maurice E. McLoughlin defeated H. M. Rice, 9-1, 6-3, 6-3, and R. Norris Williams, second, scored the second victory, winning from Stanley Doust, captain of the invading team, 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5.

All that is needed to clinch the American team's victory is to win one of the three remaining matches, and experts look for this to be accomplished tomorrow afternoon when McLoughlin and Harold H. Hackett meet the Australian doubles team, consisting of Doust and A. B. Jones. Should the United States combination win, the team will sail for England late this month to meet the German team, which already has eliminated the French team.

The play during the seven sets contested today proved conclusively that the American players have the edge on the contenders from the Antipodes.

The United States champion, McLoughlin, easily disposed of Rice, outplaying his opponent to an extent not shown by the scores. To the surprise of the gallery there was none of the old slam-bang tactics for which the Californian has been noted. He used great force, but he used care and discretion.

At the special request of the Australian tennis stars an English ball, thought to be faster than the American sphere, was used, and this handicapped the visitors, for the ball, propelled by the powerful strokes of McLoughlin in particular, bounded high and far, to the great discomfort of the visitors. Rice and Doust showed a tendency to play the bound too late.

Although the play lacked the dash and brilliancy that has marked previous Davis cup matches here, the 5,000 spectators found plenty to applaud in the fact that Rice was unable to adopt an aggressive campaign McLoughlin robbed the opening match of much of its interest. Rice could neither outgeneral nor outplay McLoughlin. In placement, also, the American clearly outshone his opponent.

The matches which brought together Williams and Doust proved more exciting. Williams, recently recovered from an illness, found the Australian captain his equal physically, and tired badly under the excellent defensive and offensive play of Doust. The latter's slow, twisting service, which bounded to right or left at the server's will, proved a handicap.

Although Williams won three of the four sets played, all the games were close, and when totalled showed a narrow margin for the victor.

The youngster of the American team for he is one of freshmen at Harvard proved his mettle at critical moments. Williams' main advantage was gained on his placement shots.

$2,000,000 NEEDED FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

centage of them are able to continue their education further.

"$2,000,000 for New High Schools."

"The current revenue from taxation," he continued, "is not sufficient to care for the maintenance of the High schools, and it's not sufficient to take care of the current expenses of the other important departments of the city. Atlanta citizens should see that the city officials work for a $5,000,000 bond issue, and of that amount, as president of the board of education, I want to ask for $2,000,000 for the purpose of erecting adequate and abundant plants for the High school students.

"The remainder of the money from such a bond issue should go to other departments. We need additional grammar schools. At present we need a grammar school in Ansley park, another in East Atlanta, one on the Battle Hill section, and in other parts of the city. The city needs money, and it's only a question of taking the proper business methods to get it."

Colonel Daley's remarks were greeted with applause, and every word spoken seemed to be appreciated and approved by the audience and by the members of the graduating class.

The prizes and medals were delivered by Hon. Edgar Watkins in a graceful speech in which he complimented the winners, amid rounds of applause from their classmates and friends. The delivery of medals was to have been made by Harold Hirsch, but when it was learned that his illness in New York city prevented his appearance, Colonel Watkins was prevailed upon by Professor Dykes, principal of the school, to take his place.

FLOWERS ARE SHOWN ON EGG IN WEST END

The flowers of summer are suggested in a peculiar egg found in the barnyard of C. R. Snyder, of 286 Lawton street, West End. On the small end of the egg, which is otherwise a perfect specimen, appears an excrudescence in the shape of a rosebud.

The flower on the egg is of the same color as the remander of the egg and is formed by a peculiar curling of that part of the shell to form the appearance of the half-opened leaves of the bud. The egg was shown by Mr. Snyder to many friends and was considered a decided curiosity by all who saw it.

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

Several interesting deals were announced Friday, as follows:

J. T. Budd, of the Investment Sales company, has sold for P. H. Snook to J. M. Skinner, a lot at the corner of Cleburn and Severn avenues. The consideration is withheld.

Mr. Skinner will improve the lot with a $6,000 home.

The Martin-Auburn Realty company has sold for Eugene Rarland to C. B. Durham, a vacant lot on the Williams Mill road, in Druid Hills, east of the former Smith residence, for $5,000, or at a rate of $55 per front foot. The lot is 100x300.

To Discuss Income Tax

Charles P. Glover, president of the Atlanta Real Estate board, has sent out notices in the name of the board, calling a meeting of realty men and others interested in the pending question of income tax in the chamber of commerce hall next Monday at noon.

The particular scope of the paper which realty men and building managers object is a provision by which under certain conditions tenants may withhold rents from landlords. The bill, it is contended, represents double taxation. Expenses will be taxed as well as incomes, and corporations doing business at a loss will be taxed on their losses. The bill has passed the house and is now up to the senate.

A large number of realty men are expected to attend the meeting. A thorough discussion of the bill will be had, and it is believed that a formal protest against the bill will be lodged with Senators A. O. Bacon and Hoke Smith.

Woman's Value in Police Work Urged by Governor G. H. Hodges, Head of Equal Suffrage State

"If the chief of Atlanta's police force or some of his assistants were capable women, it would be easy for Atlanta to control the vice situation. By this I do not mean that the present chief is incapable—from all I hear he is most efficient—but there are some civic problems that require the leadership or the assistance at least of woman."

Governor George H. Hodges, of Kansas, the state where woman has the right to vote, sat in his apartments in the Piedmont hotel last night and swiftly made a suffragist convert of a Constitution reporter.

Woman Coming Into Her Own.

"Woman is rapidly coming into her own, and for the good of politics, she can't too early. Out in Kansas, we've realized that fact and are putting it into practice. Woman's many good qualities make her the type of politician the nation needs.

"If you had woman's suffrage in Georgia, and it was given civic headway in Atlanta, you'd have the most successful municipality in the south. I venture to say. Atlanta has such wonderful spirit, though, that I would not be surprised to learn that they grant equal rights with the next few years. She should—for her own good, she should.

"Women can play an effective part in politics and not lose a semblance of her womanly grace. She forever will remain the eternal feminine. Her home life will not be hampered in the slightest and she will not lose any of the time she customarily devotes to the home and to the church. Politics will replace the woman's club. That's where she will obtain the time which she may concentrate on things political.

"In Kansas we even have women policemen—and good one, at that. In Topeka, there are two women patrolmen, one of whim Miss Elizabeth Barr, is an authoress of renown. They make good, efficient officers, and conscientious. Seventy per cent of our county officers are women, and forty per cent of the officers and attaches of state institutions.

Everybody Pleased in Kansas

"Everybody is pleased. Kansas is the cleanest state morally in the nation. We have the strictest white slavery law in the union, and we encounter only trivial vice problems. It is attributed to equal rights. When the entire nation realizes what Kansas has realized and taken advantage of, we will have a much better country.

"The chairman of the state penal board, which organization supervises the state prisons, is a woman. One of the three members of the educational board, one of the most important of all, is a woman. It is a success from start to finish. Woman's suffrage has been adopted only since last summer, and remarkable results have been obtained in such a short time. It was not considered seriously until the season of 1912.

Affects Many Problems.

"The equal rights sentiment had much to do with prohibition, and it is having lots to do with all other such successful moves in Kansas. For clean politics, for wholesome politics, where it is played on the square and as fair for one as it is for the other, woman's suffrage is to be considered as a dominant figure.

"If the chief of Atlanta's police force, or some of his assistants, were capable women, Atlanta could easily control the vice situation which I understand it is encountering. In the main suffrage, the men and women harmonize. Their views coincide and they work out their problems together in Kansas."

Hodges and Lieutenant Governor Sheffield Ingalls, of Kansas and half a dozen other prominent Kansans, members of the building commission of the old soldiers' memorial, which will be erected in Topeka, Kan., reached Atlanta Friday night en route to Tate Ga., where they will be the guests of the George B. Vacation Clothes Are in Demand

Vacation days have begun.

Many are ready to go away now—many others are planning future trips to the seashore, mountains, rural resorts and other places.

And such trips usually require many extra things to wear.

At these times you will find it peculiarly profitable to follow the advertisements in THE CONSTITUTION, for merchants now are advertising the things you need most. Often their announcements contain information concerning certain needs of which you never would have thought.

So you see that you can get many hints from ads in THE CONSTITUTION; hints about vacation clothes, hats, footwear, hosiery, underwear, bathing suits, waists, summer jewelry.

And usually such hints save you money.

NO GENERAL POLICY AGAINST THE TRUSTS

McReynold's Tobacco Plan Does Not Indicate Any Set Attitude on Part of Administration.

Washington, June 6.—In view of the widespread idea that Attorney General McReynolds' proposal for a graduated excise tax on the output of tobacco was the expression of a new policy on the part of the Wilson administration to correct trust evils, white house officials tonight disclaimed that any general policy had been discussed or adopted.

The proposal of the attorney general was described as "a suggestion" offered for discussion and bearing neither the approval nor disapproval of the administration, when broached to the senate finance committee for consideration as an amendment to the tariff bill.

The white house version of the incidents of the last two days was given with the knowledge of the attorney general. It called attention, first, to the fact that Mr. McReynolds proposed identically the same scheme when the Aldrich-Payne tariff law was under discussion and pointing to the introduction at about the same time of a bill by Senator Brooks of New Hampshire, embodying similar ideas. The introduction by Mr. Hitchcock of practically the same measure yesterday was explained as having no connection with the suggestions made by the attorney general to the cabinet on Tuesday.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

JULY COTTON AGAIN AHEAD OF NEW CROPS

Closing Prices Showed Advance of Six to Twenty Points on Old Crop.

New York, June 6.—The activity and strength of old crop positions was the feature in the cotton market again today, leading to a further increase in the July premium over October and other new crop deliveries. Old crop prices were steady at a net advance of 6 to 20 points on the old crop, while new crop months were 3 points higher to 3 points lower.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 8 points, on renewed covering of old crop months, inspired by relatively firm cables, increased English spot sales, a further rise in local stocks and the appearance of continued buying by houses with foreign connections.

Weather reports were considered generally favorable, particularly as the outlook was for lower temperatures and showers in the western belt, but new crop months were influenced by the strength of near positions, and, after some early irregularity, the whole list worked up to a net advance of from 13 to 25 points on July and August, with the more active new crop positions selling 3 to 5 points net higher.

The difference between New York July and Liverpool narrowed to about 100 points during the day, and while there was some foreign selling of July, presumably for the purpose of realizing, still active buying by Wall street people seemed to be basing August, while there was also a considerable demand for old crop months by local interests, who were selling into new crop deliveries. Toward the close, offerings increased probably in the way of realizing over night, weekend and last prices showed reactions of several points from the best. July contracts sold as high as 12.86, or fully 50 points above the low level of last Monday, and at the highest price reached since last April. There was little southern selling of old crop positions on the advance supposed to be against low-grade cotton in the south, but offerings from that source were not heavy, and other crop buyers were predicting that further advance would be necessary to attract any important shipments from the south.

Spot cotton quiet, 20 points up; middling uplands 12.20; middling gulf, 12.35; sales, none.

Dry Goods.

New York, June 6.—Cotton goods markets were quiet and steady. Silk piece goods for prompt delivery were unchanged to easier. Yarns were easy. Jobbers reported a good trade in wash goods specialties for immediate shipment.

Gibert & Clay

New York, June 6.—A better demand for spot cotton, both in this country and Europe, strengthened old crop positions again today which was followed by covering in the fall and winter months. The decreasing local stock has made shorts in July nervous, now that the demand for actual cotton, through spinners, shows improvement. Although there are complaints of cut worms in Arkansas and south Texas, crop reports as a whole are favorable.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, June 6.—The shorts in the near positions are getting badly frightened and it is a short interest that is being covered. We are getting very small indeed and reports from Liverpool are to the effect that the opinion that has that recently developed in the New York stock has met with ready sale and that more is wanted. Both Liverpool and the south would like to see it bring cotton here from the south for July delivery. Meanwhile the spinning demand for July and August shorts and the most distant months and these late months are getting very badly short. They decided to reverse the situation October one up, and December three down.

Liverpool's due to come 4½ up to 1 down.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, June 6.—The feature today was the early decline in July. Liverpool reported it apparently based on the belief that July would be taken up and shipped. This, in turn, must have been based upon the ease with which the English improvements have been able to dispose of the cotton taken on May and shipped to Liverpool. When many of the local trade found this out, they decided to reverse the situation straddles they have been making and proceed to buy August and sell the new crops. Just at the close the market was depressed by the transactions. Many took profits on July, thinking Liverpool would sell rather than receive now that the two markets had come closer together, but this does not explain the foreign purchases of August.

The market closed confused, with traders looking for lower foreign markets tomorrow.

CROP DAMAGE REPORTS BOOSTED WHEAT PRICES

Market Closed Firm at an Advance of Five-Eighths to Seven-Eighths Cent.

Chicago, June 6.—Sensational crop damage reports from Kansas counties, heretofore believed safe from harm, gave wheat an upward whirl today. The close was firm at an advance of 5-8@7-8c net. Other leading staples all showed gains, corn 1-4c to 1-8 cents, oats 1-8 to 1-4@3-8, and provisions a shade to twenty cents.

Six hundred thousand acres of wheat in Salina, McPherson, Rice and Ellsworth counties, Kansas, which have been credited with an average condition of 82 per cent were declared by experts to have receded to a condition of 50 per cent. The last named figure was here said also to make wide allowance of possible benefit from further gains. Because of hot winds, a huge share of the grain in the section named was asserted to be actually dead, and the situation in general far worse than had been supposed. Congestion in the July option here added to the fears of shorts. There were signs that July contracts were largely held by strong interests, and might be forced to a stiff premium over September. On the other hand, St. Louis reported July relatively weak, owing to the nearness of new wheat and because of threatened insurance difficulties. Profit-taking led to a decided setback at one stage, but the upward tendency was again in full swing at the end. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equalled 1,125,000 bushels. Primary receipts of wheat were 580,000 bushels, a year ago 222,000 bushels.

Corn received help chiefly from the wheat bulge. Attempts by a speculative crowd to acquire a big line of September formed an additional bullish influence.

Free offerings allowed oats to climb unchecked.

Provisions advanced, mainly owing to a sharp upturn in the hog market. Packers were buying July pork and ribs.

MAY BECOME TERMINUS OF BIG ELECTRIC LINE

merce of this city, cognizent of the many advantages of another through route to Atlanta, conferred with Mr. Duke relative to extending the road in that direction. Mr. Duke would not immediately commit himself, but suggested that the chamber investigate the territory between Anderson and Atlanta and ascertain sentiment. If the people seemed receptive and were willing to co-operate and give definite pledges in that direction, he intimated that the project would appeal to him as a sound one.

The idea impressed the chamber and it at once appointed a committee to make a special investigation. That committee is now at work. It has disclosed in the intervening territory a lively interest in the plan, and has already received tangible evidence of support. Since the chamber is itself composed of live wires and the committee is aggressive, it is expected that within a short time they will be able to go to Mr. Duke with the required assurances.

Through Northeast Georgia.

The committee is working along the line of the choice of two routes from Anderson to Atlanta. One is via Hartwell, Athens, Monroe to Atlanta, splitting one of the richest sections in northeast Georgia. The other is more a northernly route, reaching Atlanta through the railroad triangle, on one base of which is Athens and the other Gainesville. Either one of these routes taps a splendid territory, and one likely to develop into a good divided-maker from points of view of both passenger and freight traffic.

The committee already feels confident of making such a showing to Mr. Duke that he will authorize the Atlanta extension. It is pointed out that if such proves the case Atlanta and the territory traversed, including many of the busiest and wealthiest counties of the south, will enjoy another great trunk outlet to the sea, stimulating to both agriculture and manufacturing. Atlanta would also, in that case, be the southern terminus of the longest electrical road in the south, one so constructed as to exchange all traffic on even terms with the standard steam lines of the United States.

M'REYNOLDS TO ATTEND UNION PACIFIC HEARING

Washington, June 6.—Attorney General McReynolds may go to St. Paul to represent the government at the hearing on June 12 by the United States court of the Union Pacific railroad's plan for the dissolution of its merger. It is understood the attorney general has not reached a conclusion as to the adequacy of the company's plan of disintegration which provides for sale of its Southern Pacific holdings to the public like city bonds. The alternate plan for a trusteeship he disapproves.

RENEWAL OF PACTS HITS SENATE SNAG

opinion the treaty would not cover it, maintaining that it falls within the list of exceptions.

Senators Crawford, Pomerene and Bristow argued against ratification of the British agreement. Senator Bristow offered a resolution modifying the treaty so that the tolls question would be exempted specifically. Chairman Bacon asked the senate to vote down such a proposal, declaring that no distinctions should be made between different nations. He took a stand also against the proposal to recommit the treaties, saying that they should be the subject of debate in executive session.

Senator Bacon favored the ratification of the pacts and pointed out that aside from the tolls question the United States might find itself in some controversy with Great Britain in the next five years which it would be glad to submit to The Hague.

Should Admit Mistake.

Senator Lewis counselled moderation. He thought the vexing question could be smoothed out and that ratification was possible. Senator Borah took the stand that if the United States was wrong in its attitude in the tolls matter it should take the "manly" stand and openly admit the mistake. Senator Newlands was against compulsory arbitration, but favored the "persuasive" sort.

Senator Works defended the allen land law of his state and announced his disbelief in the soundness of interference with the acts of a sovereign state by the national government.

It was pointed out at the conclusion of the session that if the arbitration agreements are not ratified the United States would then be bound only by the second Hague treaty, under which disputes relating to the interpretation of treaties or arising in other ways are not compulsorily arbitrable but can be settled in this fashion if the nations concerned so agree.

Attention was directed to the recently announced peace plan of secretary Bryan which has progressed far enough to receive favorable notice from several countries. The Bryan plan, in the opinion of many observers, would prove binding at all in case of serious difficulty and might therefore not be subjected to the sharp criticism heaped on our treaties if it is laid before the senate.

The ratification of a treaty by the state requires a two-thirds vote and those opposing the British treaty and a general arbitration agreements believed tonight that it would be difficult to find a sufficient number of senators to endorse the foreign committees action.

REVISION OF TAXES TO COME THIS YEAR

would do much to bring about fairness in state taxation.

What Other States Are Doing.

"Another reform needed is some sort of law that will bring property in the tax books that has escaped taxation altogether. In growing sections where there are frequent sublivisions and transfers of land this is particularly the case. In Alabama they have tax assessment inspectors in each county, who work entirely on a commission basis, and who have succeeded, I am informed, in bringing hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property on the tax books that had previously escaped taxation. The Wisconsin state tax commission has accomplished much along this line. A somewhat similar plan has been tried with success in some sections of our own state, particularly the city of Atlanta and DeKalb county."

FEW TO WELCOME TAFT ON VISIT TO CAPITAL

Washington, June 6.—William H. Taft, Kent professor at Yale, arrived tonight to pay his first visit to the national capital since he retired from the presidency. He is here to attend a meeting of the Lincoln memorial commission, of which he is a member.

Unlike on his trips to and from Washington as the head of the nation, when hundreds would gather at the union station, few were on hand tonight to welcome Mr. Taft, the private citizen.

He was ushered into the room reserved at the station for the president, where he jingered for a minute or two shaking hands with acquaintances and then went to the residence of William J. Boardman, his host during his stay in Washington.

Missionary Society Convention.

Atlanta to Have Big Part In National Ad Men's Meet

That Atlanta will take a prominent part in the convention in Baltimore June 8-12 of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America is assured in the telegram from L. D. Hicks, of the local club, who announces from Baltimore that the Atlanta ad men have been chosen to head one of the divisions in the monster parade and that the drum and bugle corps of the famous Maryland Fifth regiment has been engaged to furnish the music for the Atlanta-led division.

Banners and signs carrying the Atlanta slogan, "Atlanta Always Ahead," will be carried by the local delegation, and electric torches borne by them will be one of the features of the parade. Mr. Hicks is now in Baltimore making preparations for the advance of the Atlantans and was the first delegate to register there.

The delegates leave this afternoon at 2:45 o'clock on a special train, which will be decorated and will advertise the Gate City at every station from here to Baltimore. The special will consist of two coaches and will contain not only the Atlanta bunch, but the members of the same clubs in Montgomery and Birmingham, who will arrive here today and be joined by the Atlantans.

Among the Atlantans whose names are on the list of those going are Paul P. Reese, Albert S. Adams, Evelyn Harris, H. M. Cline, E. H. Goodhart, Jack H. Lewis, L. E. Rogers, Fred Houser, W. F. Parkhurst, L. D. Hicks, Ivan E. Allen, W. S. Loundsbury, Howard Gejdert, M. M. Greer, George M. Kohn, Charles D. Atkinson, Donald A. Loyless, Allen M. Pierce, W. G. Peeble, William J. Davis, John A. Davis of Albany, Louis B. Magid, W. Joseph Hubbard, J. C. McMichael, E. M. Horine, W. T. Anderson of Macon, Wiley West, George H. Fuller, J. B. Holliday, Henry W. Grady, W. L. AT THE THEATERS.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.

There will be just a matinee and night performance at the Forsyth, concluding the stay of seven of the best acts that have been on the stage of the busy theater since April, 1910, when vaudeville got its first proper introduction to the theatergoers of Atlanta. The headliner next week will be Roehm's athletic girls, a quintet of mighty pretty girls, who have been selected from a big school of athletic maidens, who are all experts in the art of boxing, wrestling and bag punching. Travote, the eccentric violinist, is another of the features.

"College Girls."

(At the Bijou.)

"The College Girls" is pleasing large audiences this week at the Bijou. The musical comedy is brimful of catchy music and funny situations, as well as clever dialogue, and the performance is pleasing throughout. There will be two matinees this afternoon and two performances tonight, closing the engagement.

Wally Brooks, the clever comedian, takes the part of Hiram, and his antics at the cabaret cause no end of confusion.

15 YEAR-OLD MISS ALMAN COMPLETES GRAHAM SHORTHAND IN THREE MONTHS AT THE SOUTHERN BUSINESS COLLEGE

As the Literary Schools and Colleges Close, Many of Their Pupils and Teachers Are Entering the Southern Business College for a Summer Course in Shorthand and Bookkeeping.

MISS ROSEBUD ALMAN,
Who accepted a position as stenographer after a three-months' course in Graham Shorthand at the Southern Shorthand and Business University.

Now, learn Business!

Get ready to obtain and to hold commercial positions!

Make such preparation where the best systems of shorthand and bookkeeping known to the world are taught at the Southern Shorthand and Business University, this city!

Positions are always awaiting the graduates of this famous Business College.

A certain teacher of Bookkeeping recently took the Southern's Business Course just to say that he held a diploma from this well-known institution.

Reputation is a mighty good thing to have.

The Southern's 48 years of continual operation has made it an enviable "rep."

Call upon 25 or 30 or more of Atlanta's prominent business firms and bankers, and verify this statement.

Among the recent students who have accepted positions and made good may be mentioned Miss Rosebud Alman, who, under date of May 28, writes as follows:

"Southern Shorthand and Business University, Atlanta, Ga.:

"Gentlemen—Anyone can attend your college with absolute assurance of satisfaction, as your courses are easily and quickly learned and they meet every requirement.

"I consider Graham-Pitmanic Shorthand the best in existence, chiefly on account of its simplicity. I SPENT ONLY THREE MONTHS in completing your Shorthand and Typewriting Course, and immediately accepted a position with the International Correspondence Schools, which you secured for me. Sincerely yours,

"MISS ROSEBUD ALMAN."

Yes, the Southern's pupils learn as much about shorthand in one week as do the pupils of any school on earth, and they become better stenographers in three months than do the pupils of any of the Benn-Pitmanic systems, but the Southern prefers its pupils to stay a little longer that the study and thereby become experts.

That's why the business men prefer the Southern's pupils.

The business men have already become disgusted with stenographers writing some of the newfangled systems, as evidenced by the following advertisement which appeared in the Atlanta newspapers:

"Wanted—Lady stenographer; work hard; $30 per month to begin. Chance for advancement. * * * No Chartier writers need apply. Address own handwriting, M. A., Box 204, care Georgian."

Better be sure to learn the best system at the start.

Graham-Pitmanic leads all others in rapidity of execution and legibility in reading, and it is taught at the Southern.

Write, call or phone for catalogue, and enter now. Address,

A. F. Bruce, president, or L. W. Arnold, vice president, 10 West Mitchell Street, Atlanta, Ga.

Little Journeys Away From Home

These pleasant summer days one is naturally tempted to take week-end trips, or little journeys of a day or part of a day.

Just where to go and what to do sometimes forms a puzzling problem.

Some prefer a trip by water; others like land travel best.

Let THE CONSTITUTION guide you to the safest and most enjoyable journeys.

Advertisements in THE CONSTITUTION point the way to delightful hours.

If you want to take a trip by water the ads tell you where and how.

If you want to make a journey by rail or auto THE CONSTITUTION ads give you all the news and information you require.

If it is merely a trip to some nearby pleasure park or resort; if it is a ball game or any other enthusing outdoor sport, well, THE CONSTITUTION ads will tell you all about this, too.

It is a pretty good thing to keep in touch with the world and its doings through the ads in THE CONSTITUTION.

MILITANTS RAISE ROW AT ST. JAMES PALACE

Deliberations of Peace Conference Disturbed by Demonstration by Suffragists.

London, June 6.—Militant suffragettes today almost succeeded in interrupting the deliberations of the peace conference between the delegates of the Balkan allies and Turkey by organizing a demonstration outside St. James palace during the session.

The Women's Freedom league called a meeting "to protest against the government's supposition that it was able to secure peace abroad while unable to maintain peace at home." The police warned the organizers that the meeting was illegal.

A large crowd of hostile persons pulled the speakers from the wagon they were using as a platform and finally the police arrested three of the speakers.
